Japan Plans Penalty

Surcharge Eyed
For Dock Losses

Times News Services
VANCOUVER — Japanese shippers today postponed to March 1 a 15 per cent surcharge on all cargoes from Japan to Vancouver following a storm of protest from Canadians.

The new rates were to have come into effect today.

The surcharges are apparently in retaliation for the Vancouver dock strike last fall that cut heavily into Japanese sales of mandarin oranges and other goods costing Japanese shippers about $100,000 per day.

E. M. Strang, president of the British Columbia Maritime Employers' Association, said he was notified of the postponement in a wire from the Trans-Pacific Freight Conference of Japan.

Mr. Strang said he hoped this would mean the Japanese shippers would eventually abandon the surcharge plan, which would have meant increased prices of Japanese goods in Canada.

LABOR DISPUTE

Imposition of the surcharge was announced Thursday in a telegram from the shippers to the Vancouver Merchants' Exchange. The wire cited a "current labor dispute" as the reason, and said the surcharge would be effective today.

The surcharge brought a storm of protest from shipping officials here.

"The conditions which gave rise to the surcharge no longer exist," said Capt. B. D. L. Johnson, Vancouver port manager, in a statement released through his office here.

Capt. Johnson, in Ottawa on national harbors board business, said in an interview at the capital he has sent a "strong note of protest" to the Japanese freight conference.

The B.C. dock dispute was resolved in early December and port officials announced two weeks ago that the big backlog of ships had been cleared. Port activities, they said, had returned to normal.

Capt. Johnson said in his message to Japan the congestion has been cleared and that at present, there are no disputes or strikes threatening shipping along the B.C. coast.

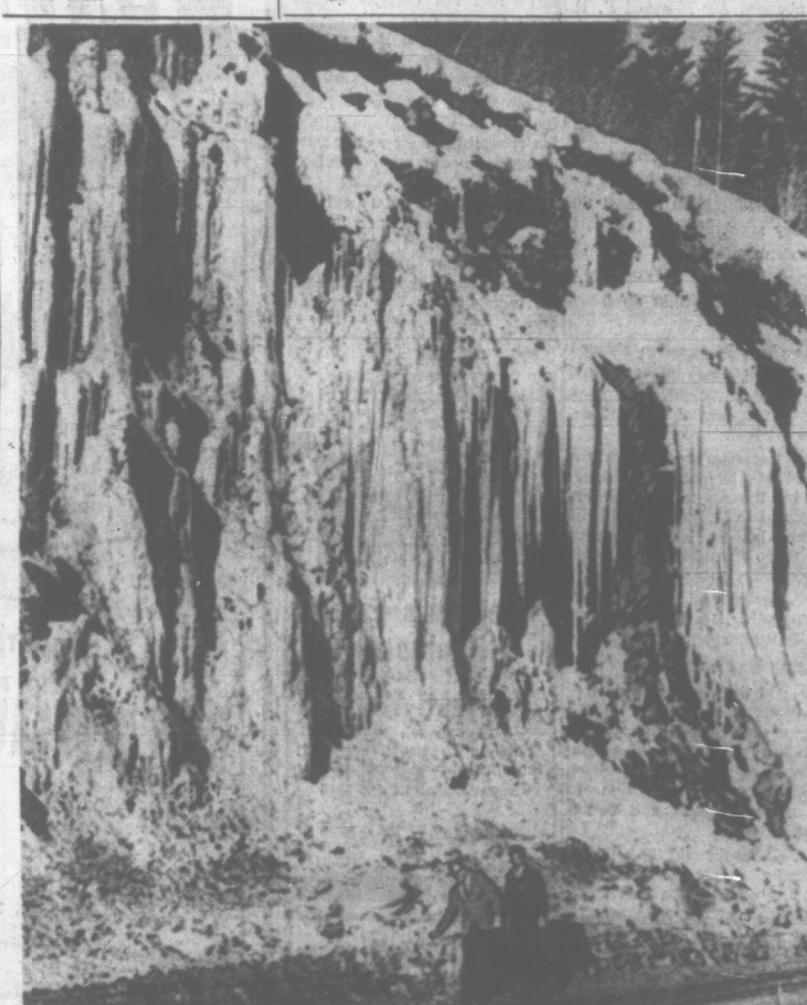

Takeshi Sakurachi, an official of Mitsui and Co. Ltd., a major Japanese export-import firm here, said that if the shipping conference sticks to its guns, the surcharge would have a serious impact on the B.C. economy.

He said he believes the conference is also considering imposition of a surcharge on goods moving the other way from B.C. to Japan.

This, said Mr. Sakurachi, would seriously hurt B.C. exports of iron, copper and nickel concentrates, grain, pulp and paper. Japan, he said, is the port of Vancouver's second-biggest customer after the U.S.

HANOI AGAIN INVITES LBJ

TOKYO (UPI) — Radio Hanoi this afternoon repeated President Ho Chi Minh's invitation to President Johnson to come to North Vietnam to discuss peace. A Hanoi broadcast monitored in Tokyo to cables asking if reports that Johnson had been invited to Hanoi were true.

China Claims Pair Stole Atomic Secrets

TOKYO (AP) — The first atomic spy case in China, the newest member of the five-nation nuclear club, was reported today. There was speculation in Tokyo that it would be used to whip up more public fury against the Soviet Union. Quoting the Revolutionary

Workers' Daily, a newspaper loyal to Mao Tse-tung, the Peiping correspondent of the Tokyo newspaper Mainichi Shimbun said two men in the chemical industry ministry have been arrested on a charge of stealing atomic secrets.

One of them was identified as an official named Ting Tieh-sheng. The nature of the secrets was not specified. The paper said Security Minister Hsieh Fu-chih, an ally of Mao, was investigating to determine whether any of the information got to a foreign country. The foreign country was not named.

The spy report came amid continuing daily anti-Soviet demonstrations in Peking and anti-Chinese demonstrations in Moscow.

GREAT POTENTIAL

Investment in MLAs Brings Solid Returns

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

Two years ago a howl went up in our province because the premier had chosen to boost the salaries and expense allowances of the people's representatives by about $2,000 to a new total of $8,000.

I can remember old-age pensioners — some of whom had never paid a penny of income tax in their lives — complaining that the $8,000 would be better spent on them.

"Well I don't know about Mikka that but I do know it was money well spent because it helped bring out 178 top-notch candidates in last September's election campaign."

HIGH CALIBRE

A lot of good candidates didn't make it but, because they ran, by and large the voters managed to elect an extremely high-calibre legislature for a change.

The way this session is shaping up, the 28th legislature may go down in the books as the outstanding group of lawmakers in our history. They certainly haven't proved it yet, but the potential is there and it's a great way to start out our second century of responsible government.

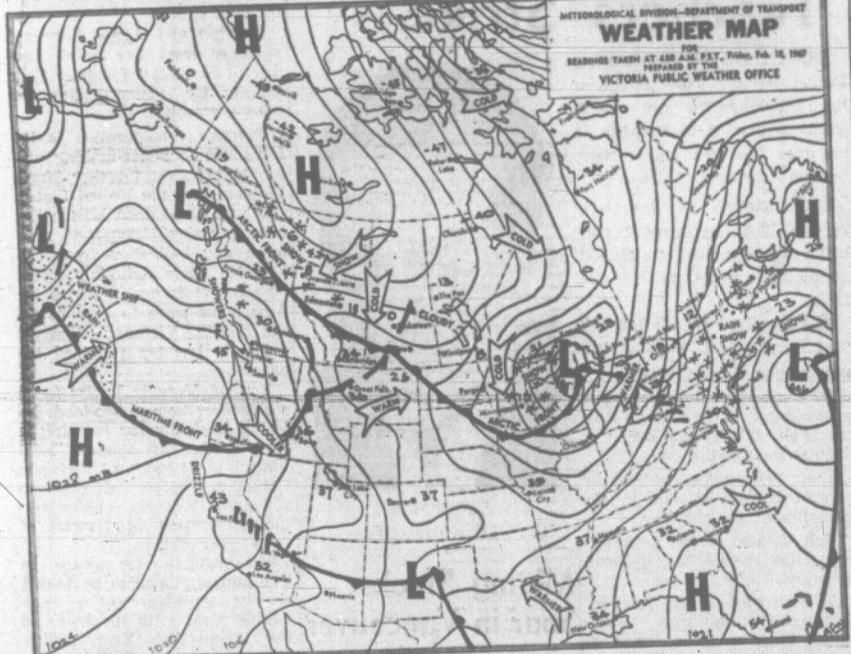

Credit for this goes to all those persons who took on the burden — and for newcomers it's an onerous one — of running for public office, but a large slice must go to Premier Bennett who had the fortitude to withstand the screams from the short-sighted.

On the other hand, he also deserves some of the slings he's launched at his obsession (understandable once but silly now) with 1952, the year he came to power, which he once again brandished in his budget speech.

The premier, in his calmer moments, probably would admit his folly too. Certainly he anticipated the consequences of displaying his fixation.

MATURE SESSION

In a pre-session press conference, he said this would be a "mature" session because the centenary would put into perspective the enmities that were aroused in 1952 when the upstart and unknown Social Creditors threw out the coalition.

HELLYER:

Chart Not False, Just Mislabelled

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Hellyer apologized to the Commons defence committee Thursday night for what he said was the mislabelling of a chart on his department's expenditures presented to the committee.

At the night sitting, Mr. Hellyer interrupted another witness and said he was worried for a "difference in labelling" of the chart.

Douglas Harkness, former Conservative defence minister, had accused Air Marshal F. R. Sharp, vice-chairman of defence staff and No. 2 officer in the armed forces, of giving the committee a "false" chart.

After the committee meeting, Mr. Hellyer told reporters Mr. Harkness should apologize for an unfair allegation against the military staff.

"I don't consider I have an apology to make to anybody," Mr. Harkness said in an interview.

The chart in question showed that capital expenditures in the defence department in 1965-66 were 17 per cent of the total defence budget.

Mr. Harkness read from the 1965-66 auditor-general's report showing that these expenditures amounted to 14.2 per cent of the defence budget. The difference was more than $43,000.

"Your chart is completely false, wrong and misleading," an angry Mr. Harkness told Air Marshall Sharp.

It is understood that Mr. Mackenzie ended the letter with one last question: "Do they always win?"

Two appeal hearings to review the refusal of the university authorities to renew the three contracts will be heard next week.

Under normal procedure the teacher involved is given an opportunity of stating his own case before the Appeal Committee.

It is understood that Mr. Mackenzie will be defended by another faculty member who has volunteered for the job.

With Dr. Taylor remaining "unreachable" four questions involving the pending decision of Dr. Tarlton remain unanswered.

Why is Dr. Tarlton now apparently undesirable when at the start of his second year he was granted a substantial raise?

Why, shortly afterwards, was he informed that his contract would not be renewed?

Why a short time later was he informed that the contract decision had been reversed and that he was wanted on campus next year?

And why was the reversal then reversed and the first decision not to re-hire him upheld?

In the past Dr. Taylor has refused to discuss in detail the incidents leading up to the decision not to re-hire faculty members.

He has always stated that the decisions are arrived at only after intense committee study and that the men involved always have the right to appeal.

OFFICERS

This appeared to put a premium on political loyalty and the result "might well be a complete disintegration of our military effectiveness."

Mr. Hellyer had compulsorily retired officers who disagreed with him and the most experienced officers still in the service "are being stalled ... by threats of termination of their careers with unacceptable financial sacrifices."

Almost the entire defence staff and other senior commanders had been released "under still unexplained circumstances but presumably because they could not subscribe to what was transpiring in the department."

Search for Cargo

AMSTERDAM (AP)—Dutch West German and Argentine police are searching for a $375,000 cargo of textiles, which disappeared last August on its way from Hamburg to Paraguay, Dutch police said Tuesday. On arrival of the Argentine freighter Naviero at Buenos Aires, it was found that 18 crates contained rags instead of the blouses, shirts, suits, and carpets shipped.

NEAR-BANK ISSUE

Grits Defend Province Veto

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP) — Political care dedicated to the government's deposit insurance bill almost went for naught in the vote of a Commons committee Thursday night.

A clause designed to encourage provincial co-operation—especially Quebec co-operation—survived a Conservative amendment by two votes. Four Liberal MPs hurried into the finance committee to provide the 8-to-6 government majority.

Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) had two other Conservatives, two New Democrats and a Creditist with him and would have carried his amendment if he had not tipped his hand earlier in the sitting.

Mr. Fulton argued that the federal government is creating a provincial jurisdiction where it does not exist by allowing the provinces a veto over participation of near-banks in the insurance scheme.

He warned that he might make an amendment unless he could bring Finance Minister Sharp around to his way of thinking.

CHALLENGES FULTON

Liberal strength at the committee table was quickly bolstered and Bryce Mackay (L—Verdun) challenged Mr. Fulton to the division.

Mr. Sharp said the power of veto was placed in the bill as a practical measure to inspire a "climate of co-operation" between Ottawa and the provinces. He did not contradict Mr. Mackay's suggestion it was to "avoid another incident" with Quebec.

Jules Verne,
Buck Rogers
Linked to B.C.

The federal government, he said, is confident of its right to extend insurance to provincially incorporated trust and loan companies, but has decided that the only way to get such a system into operation quickly is to make it voluntary for these institutions, upon consent of their provinces.

Mr. Fulton also promised that he will try to amend the flat-rate premium within the bill to provide for relatively lighter premiums on the top 50 per cent of bank and near-bank deposits.

This will come to a vote today as the committee attempts to get the bill quickly back of the Commons and Senate for approval.

The government hopes to have coverage extended to banks and near-banks by this spring. Mr. Sharp said the Prudential Finance and Atlantic Acceptance failures have adversely affected Canada's financial reputation and Ottawa is joined by the 10 provinces in a desire to reassure the public.

The bill will protect demand deposits and term deposits of up to five years, with a limit of $20,000 per account.

"It won't see Ottawa."

Stevens Sought To Sell Shares To PublisherBy JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Newspaper publisher and businessman G. Max Bell of Calgary was one of the westerners approached to buy a block of shares in the Bank of Western Canada.

In testimony before the Commons finance committee Thursday Westbank's chairman Sinclair Stevens revealed that an approach had been made to possible buyers in Alberta to purchase some of the shares owned by British International Finance (Canada) Ltd.

Mr. Stevens, who is president of BIF and the main shareholder in Westbank, said one of his directors had made the offer by phone.

It had been refused because one of the Alberta principals involved was already a director in another chartered bank, he said.

OFFER OPEN

Mr. Stevens would not identify the prospective buyer, but said his offer was still open.

Mr. Bell confirmed in a telephone interview that he was one of the persons mentioned.

"I was approached to buy shares in the bank, but I turned it down," Mr. Bell said.

He declined to give reasons for his refusal.

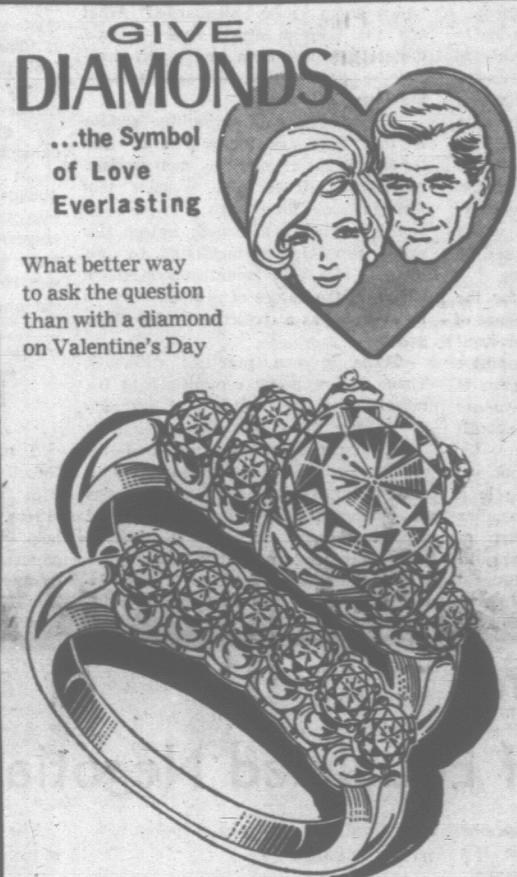

Mr. Bell is the chairman of the newspaper group F.P. Publications, publisher of the Calgary Albertan and a director of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

The approach to Mr. Bell and others was made as part of the effort to gain great western participation in the new chartered bank in Winnipeg, Mr. Stevens said.

HAS NOT PAID

At the moment the BIF group has still not paid for $1.5 million worth of its shares and has been canvassing buyers both in Western Canada and the United States.

Mr. Stevens and his Toronto-based BIF group own 52 per cent of Westbank's shares under a special government order which exempts the new bank from the law that no person or group can own more than 10 per cent of bank shares. This exemption lapses in 10 years.

SPOTTY ATTENDANCE HURTS OPPOSITION VOTESharp's Mini-Budget Survives Test

OTTAWA (CP)—The four opposition parties united in a Commons vote Thursday night but were unable to defeat the minority Liberal government in a test of confidence during the budget debate.

Finance Minister Sharp's mini-budget emerged intact, mainly as a result of spotty opposition attendance, as the vote went 87 to 75 for the government.

Meanwhile, a complex bill embodying a national transportation policy was given royal assent in the Senate after three years of drafting and revision.

Transport Minister Pickersgill held a champagne reception to celebrate the milestone and railway executives hailed the legislation as an historic move towards greater efficiency.

The bill provides for subsidies to wipe out railway subsidies in eight years, gradually allowing the railways to adjust rates, abandon uneconomic lines and scrap passenger service that doesn't pay. Minimum safeguards are aimed at preventing excessive charges and preserving services required by the public interest.

In the Commons, the opposition parties found themselves voting together for one of the rare times in the 27th Parliament. However, their 130 seats produced only 74 tallies with many MPs absent. An independent member, Maurice Allard (Sherbrooke) provided the 15th opposition vote.

So 87 unsupported Liberals defeated a combination of 56 Conservatives, 12 New Democrats, Creditists, four Creditists, two security fund.

It said the surplus should be used to meet the 265-seat tapped before an increase is made "in the oppressive burden of general taxation."

Opposition speeches in the fourth day of the six-day budget debate, which ends Monday night, worked this theme.

However, Jean Chretien, parliamentary secretary to Mr. Sharp, said use of the surplus would be irresponsible. Double taxation would be required next year if the surplus was used now, he said.

The Real Issue

WHETHER OR NOT APPEALS by three University faculty members affect the administration in its decision not to engage them for permanent employment, it is not likely that the incident will become more than a storm in the academic teapot—and this despite the dire predictions of a few youthful critics of campus affairs.

The Greater Victoria community, in fact, must accustom itself to the periodic boiling over of University controversies, and accept them as one facet of its new existence as a university town. It would be unfortunate, however, if the basic issues of the present contretemps were to be distorted and misinterpreted. It is very easy to cry that free speech and academic freedom are being infringed when what actually has happened is that someone has run into an opinion different from his own.

The President of the University, as head of the administration, is responsible for spending more than $2 millions a year on academic salaries and it is his duty to see that this public money is used to the best advantage. Under the established system of universities in Canada, faculty members are usually engaged for a one or two-year probationary period. As this nears its end the situation is reviewed and the university has the choice of appointing the teacher to the permanent staff, which carries right of tenure until retirement age, or of notifying the person that the appointment will not be made.

There may be many reasons, quite apart from classroom record or scholarship, why such appointments may not ensue. When challenged on a decision, the administration of a university may be at a disadvantage in open debate due to a reluctance to publicize individual reasons. It may become the target of charges that freedom is being stifled and so-called intellectual ferment is being cooled. But the fact remains that management, being responsible for the expenditure of public money, must have the right to make decisions to the best of its ability. That is the present issue. In the case of universities this responsibility rests upon the president, under the supervision of the board of governors, but there can be in addition, as there has been here, close consultation with administrative and faculty members.

In any particular instance the decision may be fair and valid or it may not. But provision for appeal to a special committee has been made, and in addition an aggrieved person may appeal to the Board of Governors and also seek to enlist the support of the Canadian Association of University Teachers. Apparently recourse is being made to the two latter agencies.

But in the furore over termination of half a dozen probationary appointments let us not overlook the other eighty which were reviewed and found mutually acceptable.

THE SEVENTEEN-YEAR DIPLOMATIC ISOLATION of West Germany from the Eastern European Communist area outside of Soviet Russia came to an end this week with the signing of an agreement between the Bonn government and Rumania. It is expected that similar agreements to exchange ambassadors will be negotiated between West Germany and Hungary and Bulgaria in the near future, with Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia following.

The greatest barrier to reaching the new accord was East Germany. Up until now West Germany has refused to recognize any country which has diplomatic relations with the "illegal" Pankow regime. But the diplomatic exchange with Rumania brushes the problem aside. West German Chancellor Kiesinger has simply affirmed that the new agreement in no way constitutes recognition of East Germany, while Rumanian Foreign Minister Manescu says that it will not in any way affect his country's relations with East Germany.

Despite this bit of legalistic legerdemain, however, it is quite apparent that East Germany still does figure prominently in the new relaxed atmosphere between Bonn and the Warsaw Pact members. The breaching of the Hallstein Doctrine, which held that Bonn could not deal diplomatically with nations recognizing East Germany, was the first essential to starting on the long road of German re-unification. And conversely, willingness of the Communist countries to recognize Bonn as a legal government was also a necessary accompanying step.

Only Poland, apparently, is still standing with East Germany in a doctrinaire approach to the situation. Oddly enough, though, Polish Foreign Minister Rapacki said in Paris last month that policy toward Bonn was a matter for each Communist nation to decide in accord with its own interests, although his remarks were not printed in the Polish press.

Undoubtedly this latest development will be the focus of attention again when the Warsaw Pact countries meet next month, as it will be also in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization councils. For it is, in effect, the strongest signal yet that the Cold War is easing; that the vast and costly military installations in both Eastern and Western Europe may some day be allowed to run down and the resources which they have swallowed up be devoted to more worthwhile projects.

The Stork and Israel

ONE OF THE DRAMATIC stories of the postwar era has been the creation of Israel—a home for the Jewish peoples of the world.

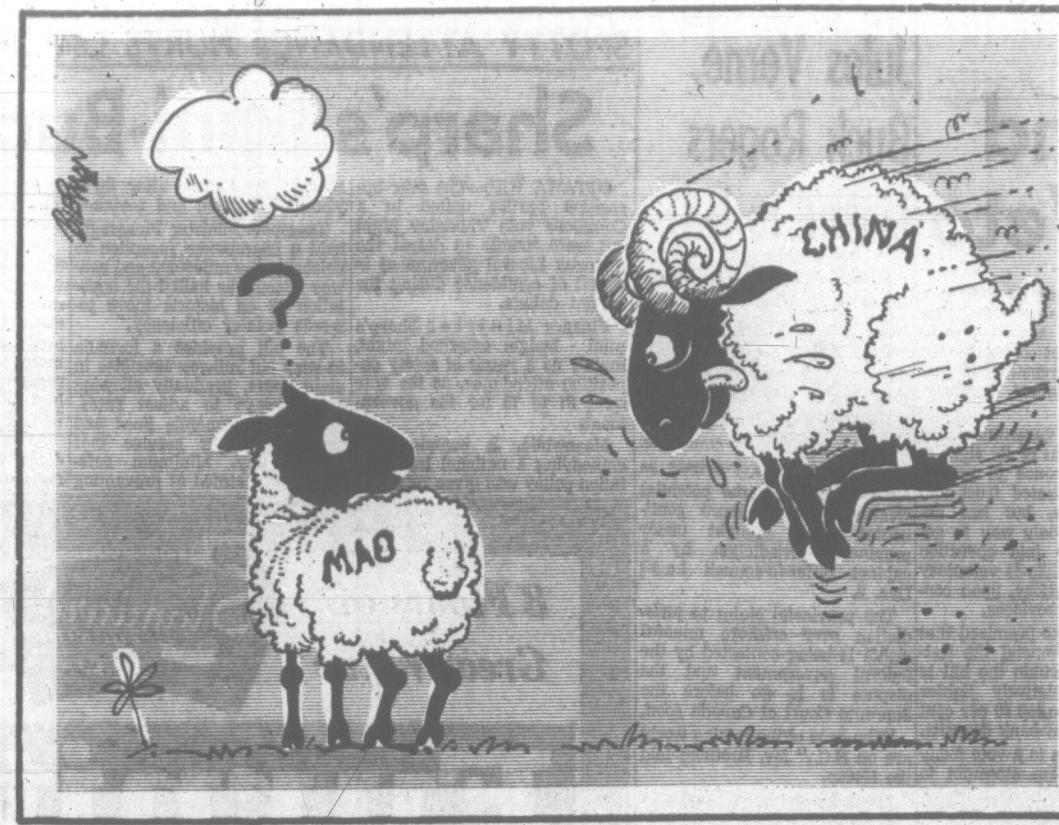

Yet, according to a report of the Israeli inter-ministerial committee of experts, the objective of a Jewish state with a Jewish majority may be eliminated by the stork in the next 50 years.

At present the population is composed of 2.4 million Jews and about 300,000 Arabs. But the committee of experts finds that the Arabs living in Israel increase three and one-half times in one generation, the Jews only one and one-half times. If the trend continues unchanged, that would give Arabs a majority in the country's population early in the next century.

Two mildly hopeful developments encourage Israeli aspirations to keep the country Jewish. The birth rate of Jewish residents, consistently falling in the decade since 1950, has shown a very modest increase since 1962, and Arabs living in Jewish towns appear to have fewer children than those away from mixed Jewish-Arab centres.

The hope for Israel diminishes, however, on the basis of another statistic in the report. Arabs in Israel have the highest birthrate in the world, surpassing even those of India and China. Will biology destroy all that politics and a vast racial will-to-live built up?

FROM OTTAWA

The Robarts' Conference—Shade Too Risky

IN his exchange of letters with the premier of Ontario, Mr. Pearson has outlined a number of perfectly valid objections to a conference on Confederation which Mr. Robarts is anxious to call. There are other reasons for questioning the desirability of this Ontario initiative.

Mr. Robarts is persuaded that it is quite proper for a province to take the lead in summoning a conference of 11 governments. One of his arguments is that Confederation was brought about in precisely this manner. This is true but scarcely relevant. At that time there was no other way forward except through the initiative of the imperial authorities.

The problem then was to create a federal government. The power so created obviously has rights and the duty of maintaining them. At the very least, it is first among equals and since it alone is responsible to all the people of Canada, it is fitting that Ottawa should have the responsibility of summoning federal-provincial conferences.

When the premiers decided some years ago to revive the custom of inter-provincial meetings, some fears were expressed that the experiment might have the result of increasing provincial pretensions at the expense of the central government. Up to now care has been taken to avoid such a result, which was in any event made less likely by the fact that some provinces are apprehensive about any erosion of federal authority. But the Robarts' proposal, strongly backed by the Quebec premier, does suggest a movement in that direction.

Wisdom Questioned

"I wonder," wrote Mr. Pearson, "whether it would be wise or desirable to move to a situation in which the premier of any province might initiate a federal-provincial conference that could be awkward or untimely for one of the other governments or to the country as a whole."

It is part of the argument for the Ontario proposal that the meeting would be completely innocent (since it would not be a constitutional conference and would not take decisions) and might be helpful in promoting general and informal discussions of the state of Confederation after 100 years. But in that event, as the prime minister has pointed out, Ontario is perfectly free to propose such a conference in the normal way; that is to the federal government, which would then take soundings in provincial capitals before sending out invitations.

There may be a considerable danger, however, that such a meeting, despite Mr. Robarts' intentions, would do more harm than good. The objectives are extremely vague. In the premier's words: "Perhaps once again, in some measure at least, by appropriate discussion in a conference, unfeathered by the techniques and procedures in effect at the various types of conference held over the past several years, achievements might result from representatives of the governments of Canada sitting down together; to examine Confederation and to take stock of the state of affairs after one hundred years of partnership together; to take the time to discuss and review, in an atmosphere free from rancor, areas of agreement and disagreement; and to explore through our ingenuity and kinship what can be done, to ensure a strong and united Canada."

Dubious

Perhaps, or perhaps not. We have had any amount of vague discussion—some of it grandiose—and constitutional dogmatism in recent years. This has been one of our troubles. If we had started with clear views of practical problems and sought the realization of limited objectives, a good deal might well have been accomplished. Instead we began with the Fulton-Favreau game of blind man's buff (an attempt to safeguard the provinces by stricter rules against hypothetical dangers) and then plunged into a discussion of cloudy "options" which seemed to assume that we must start from scratch or lose everything.

Mr. Robarts now invites everyone to talk about everything—and in public at that. But the federal government, bruised by earlier encounters, has wisely decided to take stock of its own position before risking discussions with the provinces. Until the prime minister has heard from his committee of ministers and officials, it would be unwise to consider any summit meeting at which Ottawa would certainly be exposed to pressure from revisionist provinces.

There is a better argument for the proposals of some critics in the House of Commons that Parliament should itself begin exploratory studies in committee of the federal position. The objection is that such studies would be premature until the government is ready to submit specific proposals to a committee.

This is not altogether convincing; committees (the price committee is a recent example) often undertake studies in advance of the elaboration of government policy. Such studies may in fact be helpful. In the constitutional field, it might be useful to begin all party studies of the federal powers as they are set out in the British North America Act and as they have been effected by court decisions. What are the essential powers which ought to be safeguarded? What are the powers which have become dangerously uncertain and ought properly to be clarified by constitutional amendments?

The advantage of committee studies is that they are informal and often conducted in a relatively non-partisan atmosphere. It is quite possible that through such discussions a wide consensus might be achieved; indeed this would probably be facilitated by the absence of a government announcement which, in the nature of politics, tends to be accepted as a challenge by opposition groups.

There is one practical difficulty. There are so many committees at the moment that the parties have difficulty in staffing them. But the problem is essentially one of priorities and the constitution, one would suppose, is at least as important as divorce or fisheries or penitentiaries or the practices of super-marketers. It seems to me that the government's refusal to countenance a constitutional committee is one decision which Mr. Pearson might profitably review.

As long as there is no desire to change this system, which has given rise to scandalous abuse, but which, however, continues to bless those who have an interest in maintaining it, we will be doing nothing more than acting out a comedy.

Vague 'Hate Law' Danger to Freedom

RABBI BLAMES GOSPEL
FOR FOSTERING HATE

By ERNEST MARSHALL HOWSE

In The United Church Observer

This was a headline not long ago in a Toronto newspaper. A substantial report of the rabbi's speech quoted him as charging that this hatred was deeply lodged in the subconscious of everyone who in tender years had heard the crucifixion tale in a Christian Sunday school.

The Auschwitz gashambers, the rabbi added, had their origin in cherished Christian doctrine.

This charge repugnant to Christians? Of course it is. Might this charge create hatred and contempt of Christians? Of course it might, among those whose minds are susceptible to hate.

But, in a democratic society, if the rabbi believes this, however warped his judgment may be, he has the right to say so. And it would be an outrage to throw him in jail, because some over-sensitive Christians might think that he was wilfully promoting hatred or contempt.

In contrast, some Christians, say from Egypt, might charge with at least equal cogency that every celebration of the Passover promotes hatred of the Egyptians. It pictures them as the ancient enemy. And so, the logic might go, the bitter animosity of the Middle East today have their subconscious origin in the historic teaching of the synagogue.

If a Christian were so to argue, I would think as little of it as I would of the rabbi's denunciation. But, again, I would not think that he, any more than the rabbi, should be packed off to jail.

Jail Possible With New Law

Jail for the rabbi — who, though he may not be above error, has fought many a good crusade — or the Christian who might reply, would be not a fantasy but a sinister possibility, if the so-called Hate Law now being presented to the Canadian Parliament were actually passed.

The bill, as at present drafted, has a series of general clauses about hatred and contempt which might make an indictable offence or almost anything in which a bigot might take action, and a jury or judge be induced to concur.

The least dangerous section is the first. This proposes to send to jail for five years anyone who advocated genocide. Genocide is a concept about as abhorrent to the mind today as it was normal in ancient Palestine (see the Book of Joshua, chap. 10).

Sweeping Clause Too Dangerous

It is true that even this section of the act is so sweepingly written that genocide may include "measures intended to prevent births . . ." or "forcibly transferring children" from one group to another. In a court susceptible to prejudice such clauses could have frightening elasticity. But, if the section were properly re-written, the advocacy of genocide is at least a definable offence, which no sane person could countenance.

Yet, the basic fact is that the ostensible purpose, even of this section, is not its real purpose. Canada is no more likely to turn to genocide than it is to start burning heretics in the public square. The law is not proposed to guard against genocide. The danger is unreal. The protection is unnecessary. But the device may catch some nasty people. Such indirection is not good grounds for law.

Another section would send to jail for two years anyone who by communicating statements in any public place incites hatred or contempt against any identifiable group, where such incitement is likely to lead to a breach of the peace."

A Resemblance To Nazi Tactics

Such a clause would permit those who dislike a particular speaker to foment, or threaten, a riot. The authorities would then arrest not the rioters but the speaker. This has a disquieting resemblance to the tactics of the early Storm Troopers in the rise of Nazism.

A further section provides that, even without any threat to the peace, a penalty of two years in jail be given to "everyone who, by communicating statements, wilfully promotes hatred or contempt . . ."

Again there are qualifications. But again like the charges they are perniciously vague. For example, they provide protection for the accused, if he can establish the discussion was in the public interest. That is, we shall haul a person to court, and require him to prove his innocence. Among all the discussions which have stirred the hostilities of Canadians in recent times, who can prove which ones are really in the public interest?

A former moderator of the United Church in Canada, Dr. Howse presents an argument against the present attempt by Parliament to legislate against racial and religious bigotry. In its preliminary draft, at least, Dr. Howse believes the so-called Hate Law is potentially the most dangerous piece of legislation proposed in Canada since the notorious Padlock Law imposed in Quebec by the late Premier Maurice Duplessis.

I have heard it said that the most effective piece of hate literature produced in our generation was the novel Exodus. If you want an emotional outburst on that talk to some Palestinians, or almost any Middle Easterners — who in our country really are minorities. They feel profoundly that the book and the movie gave to the world a distorted picture, which did incite hatred and contempt of their people.

Angry Persons Easily Offended

There is almost no limit to the language or literature which some offended person may angrily believe to be promoting hatred or contempt. The hate law could easily send to jail those who use such terms as Wops, Dagos and Kikes. But what about those who use the term WASP?

The argument that, because the hate law does not specifically mention religion it will not involve hatred or contempt on religious grounds, will not stand examination. If that principle were established, it would be legal, for example, to incite hatred or contempt of Jews at the point of their greatest contribution to mankind, the high faith to

Calder Wants Committee to Study Self-Gov't for Reserves

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

A special legislative committee should sit throughout Centennial year to find out whether British Columbians favor converting the reserves into self-governing municipalities, the legislature was told Thursday by its only Indian member.

Frank Calder (NDP-Altin) delivered an appeal for a start towards abolition of the reserve ghettos as redress for a century's wrongs to native Indians which stirred all MLAs into applause several times.

Minutes later he left the chamber for a sad journey to Port Edward, near Prince Rupert, where Mrs. Ella Adams—last of six aunts who raised him to manhood—had just died. Condolences of all three parties were sent ahead of him.

He said it would be an appropriate Centennial year gesture to establish a committee of MLAs who could receive briefs over the next 12 months if necessary, not to propose laws but to discover if there is a consensus.

"It could receive briefs from Indian organizations, Indian councils, public organizations, municipalities, churches, other associations and individuals regarding the feasibility of converting B.C. reserves into provincially-administered municipalities," he said.

The reservation system put Indians into social isolation rather than helping them. "This has kept them from useful contacts with the outside non-Indian communities through which there may have been mutual benefits," he said. "For the Indian people in general, there are no socially rewarding goals."

In effect, while the economic change was gradually transforming the general society, the Indian reserve communities took on the appearance of cultural regions in which there was economic stagnation and social disorder."

Mr. Calder noted that his mail has been heavy, and not all favorable, each time he has urged a program aimed at phasing out the reserves but he holds the view strongly nevertheless.

He said there are thousands of reserves in Canada and he has personally observed the "sick, sick, sick, environment" of those in B.C.

He said many people and even politicians have begun talking of the need to end the chronic squalor and poverty of the reserves "since the Indian obtained the vote" but a concerted program to enable Indians to take the initiative in their own improvement is needed too.

He said the reserve paternalism encourages Indians who have difficulties in white communities to go running back to the reserves and assume a "gimme, gimme" attitude.

But an increasing number still are trying to move to the cities to improve their lot because "the modern Indians realize the lack of destiny and purpose for them on the reserves."

The Indians in the Centennial year may have been happily celebrating the final abolition of Indian reserves in Canada.

"But as it is, the Indians may have to wait for another 100 years."

He said in future, Indians and the three levels of government must co-operate to develop a long-term program that would allow abolition of the reserves so that Indians are able to stand up on their own two feet, equal in every respect with their fellow Canadian citizens."

SURPRISE CONFRONTATION awaited legislative forestry committee chairman Cyril Shelford (SC-Omineca) when he flew into Cassidy airport near Nanaimo Thursday. Waiting on the tarmac were 30 placard-carrying workers from Harmac pulp mill. Members of the Pulp and Paper Workers Union, local 8, they are involved in a dispute to have their union recognized as official bargaining agent. Here, Gordon Wickham, president of local 8 (left) chats with Mr. Shelford (right) while W. J. Jeacock (SC-Shuswap) looks on. The committee was in the area to inspect the small woods utilization program at Harmac.

INDEPENDENT PROSECUTORS WANTED

Legal Aid Asked for Juveniles

DUNCAN—Free legal aid for juveniles is one of several recommendations made to the Canadian Committee of Correction by North Cowichan family and children's court committee.

Another is that the press should be admitted to juvenile court though the name of the offender should not be published.

A release after the committee's recent annual meeting said: "We feel the press has an important function to see; the court is conducted in a fair and orderly manner.

However, the committee feels the judge should have the power to close court anytime when he thinks it is in the best interest of the child."

The committee also submitted that wherever possible an independent prosecutor be appointed.

The committee stated: "On no account should the prosecutor be the same individual who has laid the charges."

"This is particularly relevant when RCMP officers are also the crown prosecutors."

New chairman of the local committee is Rev. William J. Hill, of Chemainus, a former welfare officer.

Other officers are Jim Quaife, vice-president; Stan Mousney (probation officer) secretary; and members Mrs. A. A. Sherman, Norman Joe, Reeve Donald Morton, Mrs. Peter Williams, Mrs. Elizabeth Rustakoff, Mrs. Betty McKierahan, and Father Giatt.

Briefs are invited from organizations, associations and individuals wishing to submit information and materials relating to the work of the Royal Commission on Farm Machinery.

The Commission has been asked to inquire into the costs of farm machinery and repair parts and, in particular, without limiting the generality of the inquiry, to consider the request on:

- (1) the factors affecting the price to the user of agricultural machinery and equipment and parts in Canada including full reference to the impact of financing, distribution and servicing costs;
- (2) the costs to the user of agricultural machinery in Canada as compared with the costs of similar equipment in other countries, both in absolute terms and in relation to total costs;
- (3) the present and prospective competitive position of the Canadian industry in Canada and in export markets as compared with agricultural machinery industries in other countries, including an examination of research and development activities and its relationship to the establishment of new facilities in Canada;
- (4) the historical and present relationship between the price and the productivity of agriculture;
- (5) the measures that contribute to the expansion of efficient production of agricultural machinery, the attainment of technological leadership in the industry, the introduction of new facilities and the enhancement of the industry's competitive position so that Canadian farmers would be assured most favorable prices for, and availability of, machinery and services.

Submissions (20 copies) should be in writing and should reach the Administrative Secretary of the Royal Commission no later than the 1st of February, 1967. Participants in the Commission's hearings are urged to submit briefs at the time indicated so that full account can be taken of the views expressed. Persons whose views are to be heard are invited to appear before the Commission for a discussion of the views advanced. Copies of the terms of reference of the Commission and further details relating to the conduct of the hearings and attendance at the hearings may be obtained by writing to the undersigned:

H. M. Roney,
Administrative Secretary,
Royal Commission on Farm Machinery,

'Trim Its Budget Or Arbitration'

Edgelow Urges Strong Stand Against School Board Costs

Victoria's finance committee chairman Ald. George Edgelow wants the city to go to arbitration if School District 61 can't trim its budget.

Budget talks between the board and city council are board-council meeting Thursday, scheduled for Feb. 16 at 5:15 p.m. in the school board offices.

The board's 1967 budget is over $15 million—a higher budget than the one now being prepared to run the city this year.

It shows an increase of six mills over last year and Ald. Edgelow told council Thursday, "six mills in one year is far too much."

"If we went to arbitration it could be the spring-board to bring all the other municipalities to our support," he said. "I don't think we should collect any monies over which we don't have control."

Ald. Edgelow said he wished to make his statement on the budget at this time because he would not be able to attend the

REPLACE BRIDGE CABLE

The submarine cable controlling signals and semaphores on Johnson Street Bridge will be replaced at a cost of $1,540.

City engineer James Garnett informed Victoria city council Thursday the temporary plastic-coated replacement for the cable would last only a few months and should be replaced by a permanent fixture.

"There is no need to draw the battle lines yet," he said. "I would hope that members of council would approach the meeting with an open mind. There may be a good reason for the budget being so high."

Mayor Hugh Stephen said he felt any discussion on the budget or the city's attitude towards it was "pre-emptive."

"I think we are being a little pre-emptive to be discussing this now," Mayor Stephen said. "We don't know just what the government contribution will be or how much it will affect the budget being so high."

$30 MILLION B.C. PROJECT BY NORANDA

TORONTO (CP) — Noranda Mines Ltd. announced Thursday it will spend $30,000,000 to bring its Newman copper property at Babine Lake, B.C., into production.

A Noranda spokesman said it will be about two years before the open-pit operation will be in production. The mine is 35 miles east of Smithers, near the open-pit operation of Granisle Copper Ltd.

The milling rate will be 10,000 tons a day—the highest of any Noranda copper mine in Canada.

Labor Split Fear

WASHINGTON (AP) — President George Meany of the AFL-CIO is drafting a massive "white paper" of his own to hit back at UAW Chief Walter Reuther's 7,000-word attack on the giant labor federation.

But while the two co-founders of the 11-year-old AFL-CIO continued their war of words, it was learned today that President I. W. Abel of the United Steelworkers is trying to get them to talk peace.

Some labor leaders fearing the rapidly escalating fight between Reuther and Meany might split labor's united front.

Reuther tore into the leadership of the federation Thursday in a lengthy letter to locals of the United Auto Workers Union. Descriptions today of the reply that Meany is preparing ranged from "sizzling" to "icy cold."

Meany's statement will be made at the AFL-CIO executive council meeting starting Feb. 20 in Miami Beach.

TRUCE UNLIKELY

Reuther's charge that Meany violates the AFL-CIO constitution at his pleasure, and Meany's forthcoming rebuttal, indicate little chance of a truce.

Most high officials in other labor unions, while refusing to be quoted by name or organization, said Reuther appears to have already made up his mind to pull his 1,400,000 auto workers out of the 13,500,000-member federation.

"I think he (Reuther) will go and it's a shame, because it will hurt all of us," said a spokesman for one of the larger unions.

The auto workers' long indictment of Meany's leadership of a "vegetating" AFL-CIO appeared to put Reuther at a point of no return.

A source close to Meany said the 7,000 words added up to one thing: "Reuther wants to be president of the AFL-CIO."

An Associated Press spot check of UAW membership uncovered strong sentiment in Detroit to follow their leader, almost without reservation.

Business Failures Show Drop

TORONTO (CP) — There were 2,418 business failures in Canada in 1966 with liabilities of $174,779,000 compared with 2,597 failures with liabilities of $175,855,000 in the previous year, Dun and Bradstreet of Canada Ltd. has reported.

The business authority said the decline was the first year-to-year drop since 1959.

Fewer failures occurred in Quebec, Ontario, Alberta and Saskatchewan. There were few changes in other provinces, the company reported.

Dun and Bradstreet also said the number of Canadian failures in December, 1966, declined to 185 from 226 a year earlier but liabilities rose to $18,268,000 from $14,205,000 — a record for that month.

Accountants In Role Study

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Canadian chartered accountants are considering whether their role can be expanded to better serve the public interest and the financial community in shareholders' audits.

Having met considerable criticism in connection with the collapse of several public institutions, such as Atlantic Acceptance and Prudential Financial companies, the accounting profession points out its responsibility is limited by legislation.

KENT

To explore whether changes are needed, the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants has set up a special committee on shareholders' audits to look into all aspects of the auditor's role.

The institute says "recent publicity indicates that the public and certain government officials expect auditors to do more than present practices allow them to do."

Whether legislation deals adequately with several important matters not specifically covered by existing law is one aspect that will be examined.

The CICA gives as examples:

- A situation where an auditor can't give a clear opinion as required by an act but can express a qualified one.

- Where an auditor is not able to deliver an opinion at all on the financial statements submitted.

- Where an auditor must report on consolidated financial statements including statements of one or more companies of which he is not the auditor.

- Where, after reporting on the financial statements, he becomes aware of errors or misstatements that would make the financial statements misleading.

- Where he becomes aware of improper transactions that could be detrimental to shareholder interests but not affect the firm's financial statements.

Duties and responsibilities of auditors in Canada, the U.S., Australia and the U.K. will be examined and compared to see whether the Canadian auditor should report to shareholders on matters other than financial statements.

At present, there are laws pending in the U.S. which could affect the future role of accountants there and elsewhere.

Victoria accountant W. Gordon Holmes agrees there is a need to look at the duties of the accountant.

"What the CICA is trying to do is set up acceptable guidelines for accounting practices. Guidelines that would be acceptable to the public, to the bankers, the companies and to the provincial securities acts," he said.

Mr. Holmes pointed to the complicating factor of separate securities acts for each of the provinces, and differing legislation governing the accounting profession.

But while the institute is aiming at similarity of practices, efforts are being made to achieve uniformity of legislation in all the provinces, he said.

The two facets work together together in trying to "give the public a fair shake."

Arrangements for new oil and gas exploration by Bata Resources Ltd. have been reflected in stock prices recently as trading at Vancouver took the issue from 25 cents three weeks ago to $1.83 Thursday.

Plans for an active exploration program were given by president Murray Pezin, who said the company's first agreement with a major oil company and its associates (all unnamed) has been fixed.

Bata gets a half interest in more than 22,000 acres of a Bison Lake prospect midway between Rainbow and Nipisi oil fields in northwestern Alberta.

Drilling will be on a site about two miles from a completed gas well and four others have been started in the same area.

Bata's hole is scheduled to be sunk between Feb. 15 and March 1 at an estimated cost of $185,000.

There is an option from the major oil company to drill a second hole to basement rock, which if taken up would mean a half interest in additional acreage adjoining.

Besides that, Bata is negotiating further participation in oil prospects of northwestern Alberta, and northeastern B.C., including the Rainbow area.

A film portrait of Sinclair Stevens, president of British International Finance (Canada) Ltd., will be shown on the CTV network Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The half-hour showing on This Land Is Mine was done prior to the controversy involving the Bank of Canada's governor James Coyne, now president of the Bank of Western Canada.

Mr. Stevens, 39, was drawing attention a few years ago when he set up his own bank, York Trust, now part of BIF, which has voting control of Westbank.

- Where an auditor is not able to deliver an opinion at all on the financial statements submitted.

- Where, after reporting on the financial statements, he becomes aware of errors or misstatements that would make the financial statements misleading.

Legislation to Outlaw Strikes Finding Favor

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Legislation recently introduced by essential employees in Saskatchewan and Newfoundland and Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec has said his government might likewise end a teacher's strike in that province.

Last month, 135 striking non-medical workers at Central Newfoundland Hospital at Grand Falls returned to their jobs after the legislature passed a measure outlawing hospital strikes.

Labor leaders charged the law was unjust, but faced with fines of $5,000 and decertification, they urged the strikers to return.

Last September, Premier Ross Thatcher called a special session of the Saskatchewan legislature and drew up a similar bill that ended a strike by 1,200 workers of the Saskatchewan Power Corp.

The Saskatchewan legislation provided compulsory arbitration with no appeals and fines of $1,000 a day against the unions each day a strike continued. If workers failed to adhere to the legislation, the unions would be decertified for at least one year.

MAY FORCE ACTION

In Quebec, Premier Johnson said public opinion could force the legislature to rule on teachers' rights to strike.

About 270,000 students in various Quebec centres have been put out of classes since the strike began Jan. 13. A parents' group has urged reform of the province's labor code to prevent similar strikes in the future.

A survey by The Canadian Press showed that Saskatchewan, Newfoundland and Ontario are the only provinces with definite anti-strike legislation governing hospitals and other essential services.

Ontario passed a bill in April, 1965, which stipulates that labor disputes in hospitals must be settled by arbitration. The Police Act and the Firemen's Act also ban strikes.

The remaining provinces have no legislation spelling out anti-strike laws against hospital or other workers. However, some provinces prohibit police and firemen from striking.

Employees of the federal government are awaiting the new Civil Service Act which still has not been passed by Parliament, although it has cleared the House of Commons special committee on the civil service.

OFFERS CHOICE

The new act, as cleared by the committee, will give federal employees a choice of arbitration or the strike vote to settle salary disputes, but the choice must be made at the outset.

Under the present Civil Service Act there is no provision for strikes.

Sixteen states in the U.S. have anti-strike legislation and in North Carolina and Georgia, civic employees are not permitted to belong to unions.

At the provincial level, there is no legislation in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick or Prince Edward Island banning strikes of hospital employees or other essential service personnel.

Manitoba has no laws prohibiting hospital strikes, but arbitration acts prevent police and firemen from striking.

Alberta's Labor Act provides if life or property is jeopardized

GRITS PLAN 1968 RALLY IN VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP) — The next Liberal party national convention will be held in Vancouver in 1968—if Prime Minister Pearson does not retire before then, L. C. Jolivet, president of the B.C. Liberal Association, said Thursday night.

The convention, if held in Vancouver, would be the first ever to be held outside of Ottawa, he said.

"If there is a leadership convention before 1968 it would be held in the east."

Night Watch for Germans at Dieppe?

LONDON (CP)—German participation in the night vigil at Dieppe may be one way out of an embarrassing situation, it was stated in Canadian quarters today.

Veterans of the German 302nd Infantry Division who fought Canadians at Dieppe in 1942 have asked that a few of their members be allowed to participate in the 25th anniversary observance Aug. 19. Another 30 would like to be at the cemetery as spectators.

The request has stirred mixed feelings among Canadian veterans and families of the Canadian dead.

A Canadian official here said a Canadian official here said the cemetery where about 890 Canadians are buried is rather small. When all the anticipated local groups place wreaths and pray during the night,

The official said it may be fitting that the Germans participate in this night observance.

There would be sufficient space at that time for large groups.

The suggestion is understood to have been raised in the Canadian veterans affairs department at Ottawa.

'BETTER HAVE TOLLS THAN NO BRIDGES'

The legislature Thursday heard a plea for toll on major bridges from a second Social Credit back-bencher.

Thomas Bate (SC-Vancouver South) said the proposed crossing of Burrard Inlet will cost "hundreds of millions of dollars" instead of the prevalent estimate of $85 million and no civic taxpayers should be burdened with the cost.

But the crossing is needed and tolls from the users should be introduced to help pay for it.

"Better to have toll bridges than no bridges," he said.

Mr. Bate also commended a current study on feasibility of rapid transit services for downtown Vancouver.

"There should be no parking allowed on downtown streets day or night because (roads) are the most expensive real estate we've got."

"There should be several high-rise car parking garages built instead."

HOMEOWNER GRANTS

'Help Landlords Who Hold Line'

DOWDING
... rising rents

Visit Rights Cause Tiff

The provincial government should pay a subsidy to landlords who "hold the line" on rising rents, the legislature was told Thursday.

Gordon Dowding (NDP — Burnaby Edmonds) said his riding within 50 years will be covered with apartment buildings and the homeowner grant will not help the residents.

Tenants now pay taxes through their rents and the government should help them too or else there will be "a veritable Hong Kong from Hope to the Pacific Coast someday . . . with three or four people living in each high-rent room."

He made the comments during debate on a bill to boost the homeowner grant by $10 to $120.

Both the NDP leader Robert Strachan and Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said their parties supported the principle of the bill but debate was adjourned without it receiving second reading.

Mr. Perrault advocated a thorough study aimed at recommendations for a more equitable sharing of tax revenues between the provincial and municipal governments.

Robert Williams (NDP — Vancouver East) said in the west end of Vancouver there are 30,000 residents but only 1,600 property owners and the city as a whole has 52 per cent of its population as tenants so a new approach is needed.

Man to Face Trial For False Pretences

A man charged with obtaining watches and jewelry by writing a worthless cheque was committed to trial before a judge and jury Thursday.

At a preliminary hearing in central court Magistrate Oster ruled the Crown had presented sufficient evidence against Henry Rogowski, 432 Wilson, to warrant the false pretences trial.

Rev. Murray Henderson has been elected president of the Victoria branch, Canadian Bible Society.

Rev. Cyril Venable is vice-president, with Mrs. T. W. Gray, secretary; T. E. De Wolfe, treasurer; Frank Martens, colonist.

Some indoor gardeners can grow and flower saintpaulias seemingly without effort, while the efforts of others are accorded little success.

Rites Held For Garden City Church Worker

Funeral services for Mrs. Bonwyn Pym, for many years an ardent member of Garden City United Church, were held this week at the church.

Born in Dinas Powis, South Wales, 83 years ago, she came to Canada in 1912, and just last month observed a 61st wedding anniversary with her husband Walter at their home, 668 Ralph St.

Mrs. Pym was a member of the Garden City United Church Women and a singer in the church choir.

A hymn book inscribed in her memory will be placed in the church loft.

She died a week ago today.

Besides Mr. Pym, she leaves four daughters, Mrs. J. J. Thornton, Edmonton; Mrs. F. G. Hitchens, Victoria; Mrs. W. H. Bulmer, Victoria; and Mrs. J. G. Peel of Edmonton, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Interprovincial Olympic Experiment on the Mark

QUEBEC (CP)—When Prime Minister Pearson officially opens the first Canadian Winter Games here Saturday night, it will mark this country's initial experiment in the field of inter-provincial Olympics.

The prime minister's official send-off will follow four years of planning on a budget of $700,000—provided by the fitness and amateur sport directorate of the federal health department.

The games' committee has selected "unity through sports" as its slogan for the games, which run through to Sunday, Feb. 19.

The major aim of the extensive program is to stimulate interest in amateur sport throughout the country.

In all, 1,878 competitors, of whom 653 are women, from all 10 provinces and the Yukon and Northwest Territories, will compete in 13 sports throughout the week.

A major part of the budget will be spent on transportation and accommodation for these athletes, their trainers, coaches and provincial sports officials.

The games will feature badminton, basketball, volleyball, curling, gymnastics, hockey, wrestling, synchronized swimming, figure and speed skating, skiing, table tennis and shooting events.

The synchronized swimming is for women only, while the wrestling and hockey competitions are restricted to male competitors. The other 10 sports fall in the mixed category.

With the first athletes due to arrive today, Antoine Normand, publicity director for the games, said Thursday that all was in readiness for the influx.

The concept of the games came from Andre Marceau, a 35-year-old Quebec City lawyer, while he was serving as a member of the National Fitness Council at Ottawa in 1962.

Marceau emphasized that Australia had advanced in tennis and swimming "by building to quality from quantity."

Instead of seeking the few top athletes and concentrating on their development, Australia adopted a mass competition school in hopes that the best would rise to the top while others taking part would benefit through competition.

This system had been followed throughout Canada in selecting competitors to the games.

Through this process of elimination, British Columbia has chosen 174 athletes to attend, Alberta 175 and Manitoba 177, while Saskatchewan tops the Western provinces with 180 competitors.

Ontario and Quebec are sending 178 representatives each, while New Brunswick with 161 has the largest delegation from the Maritimes.

Nova Scotia is sending 158 athletes, Newfoundland 148 and Prince Edward Island 146.

The territories have 203, with the Yukon supplying 89 and the balance coming from the Northwest Territories.

Labadie Is Key Figure In Bid to Crack Slump

Mike Labadie, considered as a "forgotten man" of the Victoria Maple Leafs, is being moved to a position from which he may start jogging Western Hockey League memories.

One of the heroes of Victoria's championship playoff series with Portland last spring, Labadie has been an all-but-forgotten figure while undergoing and then recovering from an elbow operation.

He didn't get into action until the Leafs' 30th game, then bounced here and there as a succession of slumps and injuries continued to keep Victoria lines in constant turmoil.

The 35-year-old winger from St. Francis d'Assis, Que., was a non-participant Wednesday as Leafs dropped a 3-2 duke to Seattle Totems.

WORKS WITH BARLOW

Another change is contemplated as the Leafs prepare for a Saturday night visit by Los Angeles Blades, but this time Labadie will be a participant.

Coch Frank Mario, disturbed by three straight setbacks that has dropped Victoria into sixth place, plans to start Labadie on a line with Bob Barlow and Lou Jankowski.

Labadie, said Mario, "played well" and scored in last Sunday's 5-3 loss at Portland.

"It's not a big change," he added, "but we've got to do something to settle the line."

MARCELLA NEAR TOP

Mario's big line of Milan Marcella, Andy Hebenton and Bruce Carmichael will remain intact while the third will have rookie Mike Laughton centering for Rollie Wilcox and Dick Lamoureux. Either Steve Wituk or Gordie Redahl will dress as the extra man.

Marcetta, the league's leading scorer with 31 goals, continued to provide a sparkle in Victoria's otherwise dismal display during the past week. Marcella has figured in three of the six goals scored by the team in its past three games.

His points total of 55 keeps Marcella very much in the running for the league scoring crown. Leading the way are Dick Meissner of Los Angeles and Gord Vejrova of Vancouver, each with 60 points.

Scoring statistics:

Shutout Victory Lifts Norsemen

University of Victoria Norsemen moved to within two points of fourth place in the Victoria Rugby Union's second division by blanking Naval Technical School, 16-0, on the Gordon Head campus Thursday.

Vics Blanked Twice

University School sides swept a two-game exhibition rugby series from Victoria High School. A try by Tony Peyton provided University firsts a 3-0 victory while the second XV blanked Victoria 20-0 at Vic High.

But, she said, the skaters competing in the world championships were travelling directly to Vienna for the world championships, there would be no problem financially because the Canadian Figure Skating Association, through federal government grants, assumes the full cost of travel, accommodation and other expenses for the 11-member team.

B.C.'s BEST BENEFITLike Scouts, Skaters Offer a Helping Hand

VANCOUVER (CP)—The United States national figure skating team has offered financially-pressed Canadian skaters a free week at a New York resort to train with American skaters for the world championships in Vienna this month.

The offer was hailed Thursday by figure skating officials in British Columbia, as being a "tremendous help" for Canadian skaters—particularly those from B.C.—who wanted to compete in the North American figure skating championships at Montreal this weekend.

"Without the American offer it could have meant that some of our (B.C.) skaters could not have competed at Montreal," Mrs. Dantes Pagliari of West Vancouver, B.C., representative for the Canadian Figure Skating Association, said in an interview Thursday.

"But then . . . we sort of go along from day to day, but we always seem to come up with enough money to get our skaters to these competitions."

HOTEL PAYS THE BILLS

Mrs. Pagliari said the manager of the American skating team, in a telephone conversation this week, had offered to allow Canadian skaters to stay at the Concord Hotel, a Catskill Mountain resort at Kiamichi Lake N.Y., and train on an outdoor rink with the American team.

The team manager said the hotel was picking up the tab for the American skaters and would pay for the Canadian skaters as well. The offer covered the period of a week following the Montreal competition before Vienna.

However, the invitation was seen here as not being entirely a goodwill gesture.

Jean Westwood of Vancouver, one of the world's leading coaches of the skating pairs and dance champions, admitted in an interview Thursday she was probably instrumental in the invitation being extended to the Canadians.

Miss Westwood, five-time world dance champion, is currently coaching both the Canadian and U.S. dance champions—Jonie Graham and Don Phillips of Vancouver and Lorina Dyer and John Carell of Seattle.

"The American dance team wouldn't train (at Concord) without me and I wouldn't go without my Canadian skaters," she said, "so the invitation was extended to the Canadians."

Miss Westwood said the invitation has not yet been formally accepted but she thought it unlikely it would be turned down.

She said the decision would be made at Montreal this weekend.

SHORT OF MONEY

Mrs. Pagliari said the financial position of the amateur skaters was particularly acute this year because the North American championships—a bi-annual affair—came before the world championships.

Mrs. Pagliari said if B.C. skaters were travelling directly to Vienna for the world championships, there would be no problem financially because the Canadian Figure Skating Association, through federal government grants, assumes the full cost of travel, accommodation and other expenses for the 11-member team.

Research Council 'Casualty of Buttle'

The B.C. Research Council has become a casualty of the battle of Buttle Lake, the legislature was told Thursday.

Ernest Hall (NDP—Surrey) charged the semi-autonomous scientific organization's "reputation for integrity and independence was impaired" when it killed its first report on pollution potential of mine tailings in the lake.

He claimed a second and less-damaging report on Western Mines Ltd. tailings disposal proposal was made by the research council "in my view through a combination of massive private industrial pressure and government acquiescence..."

"And it might even be interesting to ask the research council to research how Western Mines influence is moving into the corridors of this building," Mr. Hall added.

Mr. Hall said the research council had developed an enviable reputation for independence since its founding in 1944 despite the fact it receives substantial government grants and has a cabinet minister as its chairman of the management board.

But the reputation was impaired last October when it prepared a report for the Campbell River water board on the Western Mines proposal and then "buried, wiped out, ditched" it, substituting a second report that showed important variations.

(The latter was a reference to an appeal court decision which threw out the mining company's permits on a legal technicality.)

Mr. Hall recalled: That Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell had said he "would be the first to man the barriers" if there was any technical evidence that Buttle Lake could be polluted;

That Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan had said he would drink Buttle Lake water "any day of the week" if tailings were dumped into its depths;

The Resources Minister Ray Williston had said there would be no pollution of the lake tolerated.

"It's like a glorified shell game."

B.C. Budget Policies 'A Fiscal Fogbank'

By GLEN ALLEN

A self-confessed "electricity quack," Dr. Pat McGeer (Vancouver-Point Grey) turned the juice on provincial power projects Thursday.

He said the huge projects are using funds desperately needed for hospitals and education.

Terming British Columbia a "paradox in paradise" and the government's long-range budget policies a "fiscal fogbank," Dr. McGeer said Crown corporations "suck the goblet dry."

He said the B.C. Hydro projects are tunnels which "divert the river of social capital from its course."

'CRYING SHORTAGE'

"That is why we have swing shifts in schools, a crying shortage of municipal works and staggering waiting lists at all our hospitals."

Dr. McGeer hemmed the funds "diverted" to hydro projects.

He said Premier Bennett in 1962 "first began to play his conflicting roles as manager of the pension funds and financial agent for the B.C. Hydro."

Between then and 1966, the superannuation fund growth was $32 million.

ALL TO HYDRO

"In that period, the holdings in B.C. Hydro grew by $34.7 million. Every dollar of the fund's growth went to B.C. Hydro."

"School district holdings decreased from $21 to $19 million and municipal holdings from $15 million to $14 million," he added.

He said there were corre-

Two Charges Laid in Elk Traffic Fatality

One of the drivers in a two-dead crash at Elk Lake in December will face trial on charges of impaired driving and dangerous driving.

George Wilk, 52, of 1278 Denman was committed for trial Thursday at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing before Magistrate J. A. Byers.

Wilks' wife, Pauline, and Christopher Berryman, 15, of 5174 Santa Clara, were killed when a car rammed the rear of a truck on the Pat Bay Highway at Piedmont Dec. 4.

The Berryman boy was in the rear of the truck which had stopped to make a left turn.

Magistrate Byers ruled the Crown had presented sufficient evidence to warrant trial before a higher court. Bail for Wilk was set at $500.

sponding increases between the teacher's pension fund and the civil service retirement fund and B.C. Hydro holdings with decreases in other school and municipal holdings.

The Canada Pension is the largest fund of all — over $85 million a year to the province.

"Do you know who the fiscal agent is? — B.C. Hydro."

He said while the pension fund in Ontario goes for education and in Manitoba is administered by the Manitoba Development Fund Board, in B.C. the money enters the great diversion tunnel to B.C. Hydro.

"Is it right that one man has the absolute power to decree where the savings of 16,000 teachers will go? The savings of 12,000 civil servants?"

"SO MUCH POWER!"

"Is it right that the man who has the power to do all these things should also have the power to work social hardship by giving such low priority to schools, hospitals and municipal works?"

But Dr. McGeer said Liberals "support" the Peace River project.

"We oppose what is being done to finance the project."

"We wish to blow away the fiscal fog."

"We wish to see adequate protection of the savings of individuals, now under control of the minister of finance."

"SUCH GOBLET DRY"

"We want adequate social capital made available." The Crown Corporations cannot be allowed to suck the goblet dry."

He said the corporations could be financed either by "competing on the open market for funds" or request a long-term federal government loan "without compromising any principles."

Dr. McGeer said one of the "tragic consequences" of the diversion of capital is the shortage of hospital beds in the province.

"In 1952, the first year the Social Credit government took office, provincial government grants towards hospital construction totalled $3,891,888."

"The amount spent in 1965 was actually less — only $3,724,756."

He also said cost per bed of construction today is four times the 1952 cost.

NDPers Praised By Liberal

Liberal MLA Dr. Pat McGeer did the unusual Thursday in the legislature — he took time from his own speech to praise those by MLAs in another party.

As it happened, both were NDP members, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan and Frank Calder, the only Indian parliamentarian in Canada.

Following Mr. Calder's appeal for an effort to help Indians abolish their handicaps by converting reserves into municipalities, Mr. McGeer said:

"It was one of the finest speeches made in the House and certainly the most significant words brought here on the subject of Indian affairs."

TRIBUTE TO STRACHAN

Then, he paid tribute to Mr. Strachan's Monday analysis of Premier Bennett's handling of provincial pension funds to help B.C. Hydro financing at the expense of school district and municipal debenture needs.

"The leader of the opposition, in his revealing speech to the legislature, gave some indication as to what is going on in the many accounts the premier manages," he said.

Dr. McGeer proposed that Mr. Bennett's statue should be erected in the new Sports Hall of Fame in Vancouver to honor "the greatest financial juggler in our history."

Eventually, I hope that some well-meaning philanthropist will judge the nature of the continuing brouhaha that has flared again at University of Victoria, and take appropriate action.

This would be to endow an entirely separate and much smaller university which would draw to itself those young and not-so-young people doomed by their natures and intellectual equipment to a fermentation which no standard academic bottle should be required to contain.

These would be decanted from the main student body, which would be left to pursue its course without peace-shattering incidents. In exchanges between the two institutions would be strictly screened, since any infiltration of one group by the other could upset both applecarts.

However, since the prospect of such a separation is unlikely in any foreseeable future, I suppose we must struggle along with what we have.

This is not a united and cohesive student population, but two totally unlike factions that share one campus.

Each has an essential place in the scheme of things. I would not venture to say, either, which gets the most out of its university years.

Their purposes in going to university may overlap in spots, but remain basically different.

The one group, which is and will always be the largest, is there for job training. It contains many of the most earnest scholars and scholarship winners. Those who comprise it will move on to grace the sturdier occupations and professions, where they can be counted on to perform both steadily and capably.

They are worthy, necessary people, and our society would crumble without them.

But we also need the others—the hedge-hodge of radicals, activists, dissidents, free-thinking humanists and artists of all kinds and degrees. These are concerned, not with preserving the status quo, but with kicking the tar out of it, and in the process they occasionally manage to improve the human condition. That smaller group seeks further and to some extent different values from a university.

Its members expect to challenge and be challenged. For the instructor who can and will help them expand their minds, they cherish a fierce devotion. They draw their own line between the fact-pumper and the educator. They are unawed by tradition, and they demand academic freedom for those who teach them.

3rd Year Student Elected President Of AMS at UVic

University of Victoria students Thursday elected David McLean, a third-year political science and history major, new president of the Alma Mater Society.

Mr. McLean, 21, polled 675 votes, defeating his only opponent, Stephen Sullivan, by 27 votes. Fewer than a third of UVic students voted.

Mr. McLean takes office for a year, March 15. He advocated a public information campaign about present student objectives in his campaign, and backs present student demands for equalization grants for out-of-town students.

Officers Elected By Restaurateurs

William Webb was elected president Thursday of the Victoria-Vancouver Island branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association.

Other officers elected: vice-president, Tom Hanna and Vice-President Watson; treasurer, R. S. Porter.

More Policemen on Foot Please City Merchants

An influx of vagrants from the mainland and eastern points has led city police chief Jack Gregory to put more of his men into the beat.

Lacking it, I think we had better get used to fairly frequent crises on UVic's two-in-one campus.

Such a climate isn't likely to inspire the growth of ivy on the outside of those college walls. But it could make for a very healthy yeast among them.

THIS-AWAY will be the way McKenzie Avenue goes when it is developed as a major east-west thoroughfare in Saanich, from the University of Vic-

ROADBLOCKS OUT TONIGHT YOU'VE BEEN WARNED!

City police will operate road safety checks tonight. Advanced word on the checks is a new public relations approach which the force wants to test, Chief J. F. Gregory and Inspector Richard Berry said this morning.

As in the past, teams of police spotted about the city will stop drivers, checking safety equipment and keeping an eye out for drinking drivers.

Firms Broke Pact, Indians Protest

An Indian chief today charged the Canadian Pugot Sound Logging Co. with failing to live up to an agreement to hire Indians as boom men at its Becher Bay boomer grounds.

Chief Thomas Charles of the East Sooke Indian reserve said he is filing a complaint with the Indian Affairs office at Duncan and is considering legal action against C.P.S.

The chief said the Indian band at Becher Bay leased a part of the reserve to the company for use as a booming ground several years ago.

Under the terms of the agreement, the company agreed to hire Indians as boom men, he claimed.

FIGHT TO END'

"They haven't done so for years," he said. "The excuse given by one official is that Indians are unreliable. I challenge that and I'm going to fight this to the end."

He said 75 per cent of the boom men at the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. booming ground at Plumper Bay are Indians.

This company has never questioned the reliability of Indians as boom men," he said.

Work is expected to start next year. Saanich must approach the province before August in each year for funds to be approved in the following year.

Victoria church women today joined with those of 3,500 communities across Canada in observing World Day of Prayer.

They used a service prepared by the late Queen Salote of Tonga, a dedicated Christian, who for many years led her own people in the annual observance.

First of today's gatherings was held at dawn in the Tonga Islands of the South Pacific, moving westward with the advancing sun until prayers for peace and understanding encircle the world.

In Victoria and Vancouver Island, women of many denominations attended prayer meetings in churches and rest homes this afternoon.

They included the Caroline Macklem Home, Rose Manor,

Matson Lodge, Kiwanis Village;

St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt; St. David's Anglican Church, Cordova Bay;

Metropolitan United, St. Aldan's United, and Wilkinson Road United.

There will be an interdenominational youth service in First United Church tonight at 7 when the speaker will be Rev. John Watson of First Baptist Church.

Rev. David Metzger of Grace Lutheran Church will address a prayer service in Metropolitan United at 7:30 p.m.

Saanich Pays $196,000 For Property

Almost all the land needed to widen and reconstruct McKenzie Avenue has been acquired by Saanich, municipal assessor Jack Lindsay said today.

Only one more property, and a few small pieces, are left in the acquisition program. Cost has been about $196,000.

Mr. Lindsay said Saanich owns "about six" houses along the widened and new route of the road. One will be demolished and the rest sold to be moved.

The new McKenzie Avenue will link up with Ruby Road and Sinclair Road in the east, providing a cross-Saanich thoroughfare to the Patricia Bay Highway.

New route of McKenzie is shown by the dotted line in above photo, with the University of Victoria in the distance.

The provincial government has declared the new route a secondary highway, making it eligible for 50 per cent of construction and drainage costs from the province.

Work is expected to start next year. Saanich must approach the province before August in each year for funds to be approved in the following year.

Laborer Called Sane By Two Psychiatrists

Higher Court Trial On Shooting Counts

A Sidney laborer was committed for trial on three charges of attempted murder today after two psychiatrists testified he was not insane.

MAN ADMITS DEFRAUDING MOTOR INN

A man who walked out of a Sanich motel Monday leaving a $111.75 bill owing pleaded guilty to fraudulently obtaining lodging when he appeared in court today.

Keith McNamara, 34, of no fixed address, was remanded to Monday for sentence.

Detective George Walton told the court McNamara stayed at the Red Lion Motor Inn, 3366 Douglas, from Jan. 30 to Feb. 6 before slipping away. He told police he had enough money when he registered but left when he ran out of funds.

The charges against Kenneth Wayne Ingram, 25, of 1986 John Rd. in Sidney, followed a shooting incident at the Sidney RCMP detachment office and jail last Thanksgiving Sunday. A jail guard received a gunshot wound in the side and an RCMP officer had a bullet pass through his hat when a man armed with a .22-calibre rifle forced his way into the office early on Oct. 9.

Police who rushed to the scene were met by a fusillade of shots before a man found lying in the basement was arrested.

AT RIVERVIEW

Ingram spent three months under observation at the Riverview Mental Hospital following the incident.

Dr. Edmund Mellor, a psychiatrist at the hospital, said at the preliminary hearing today that Ingram was suffering from a long-standing personality problem and chronic alcoholism. But the doctor could find "no evidence of actual insanity" during the prisoner's stay.

'EXPLOSIVE'

He did say that under the influence of alcohol, the accused's basic personality was "able to lead to explosive action." When sober, Ingram was shy, withdrawn and not hostile.

Dr. Douglas Alcorn, a psychiatrist who examined Ingram on the days immediately following the shooting, said the man was at first "extremely excited" but later felt the need for courtesy call than a serious negotiating trip.

"We are planning to discuss such things as a Canadian corridor through the Alaska Panhandle, the U.S.-Jones Act, and development of a dust-free highway to Alaska as well as other matters of mutual interest," Gov. Hickel told a reporter in Juneau.

Gov. Hickel is reported to be intent on meeting Premier Bennett to discuss several important topics but officials here think it's more in the nature of courtesy call than a serious negotiations.

Ingram told the doctor of a family argument which preceded the shooting incident. Dr. Alcorn said the accused's history showed a background of conflict with his parents.

Magistrate Ostler committed the Sidney man for trial before a higher court when the hearing concluded at noon today. Two charges of breaking and entering were withdrawn.

VANCOUVER ISLAND WOMAN Mrs. Margaret Wyndlow is "fighting mad" and plans with other cancer victims to picket offices of judge banning serum she had been taking at Cleveland cancer clinic. Mrs. Wyndlow, 62, of Yellow Point near Nanaimo, has cancer of pancreas, believes serum responsible for keeping her alive beyond doctor's prediction of death. Vaccine was developed by Rand Corporation, and was recommended by a son-in-law, a cancer researcher, who said she has "nothing to lose." Only terminal cases are accepted for treatment at clinic. U.S. Food and Drug Administration said serum had been "adulterated and misbranded."

KNOCKS WHITBREAD

Bryant Disturbed By 'Interference'

Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant has headaches for the municipality," he said. "It's as simple as that."

But health authorities, while agreeing that Lang Cove is polluted, say there would be no objections to the hook-up if the owners of the Christie Point apartments and Esquimalt council agreed.

"We would have no objections," said Dr. Whitbread this morning.

It is understood the pollution control board would also accept the Lang Cove outfall plan if other authorities approved.

Dr. Whitbread admitted the hook-up with the Esquimalt mains is not the only solution.

First school authorities would require permission to hook into the private sewerage line running between the Christie Point apartments and the Esquimalt mains.

TO LANG COVE

Ultimate outflow of the system would be Lang Cove, described as an already heavily polluted area in the Sewerage Survey report for the regional district.

Next week Esquimalt council will meet with a technical group comprised of municipal and consulting engineers to review council's earlier stand.

The health chief said he is most concerned about the entire sewage disposal problem in View Royal.

"Every ditch in that area is an open sewer line," he said. "It is no longer just a View Royal problem but a regional problem. The sooner we get a system in there the sooner we shall eliminate health dangers."

"If typhoid ever hits it will not just hit View Royal."

Ask The Times

Q. I saw that Harvard trainer head for the drink the other day and I didn't know who to phone. What do you do when you see an aircraft or boat in trouble? W. K.

A. The B.C. Telephone Co. advises you to call the Operator and say "Aircraft distress" or "Marine distress." Your information will be received by the Rescue Co-ordination Centre of the RCAF.

Q. What is the personnel strength of Canadian Armed Forces? B. D.

A. Last November's count set the figure at 105,300—18,000 in the Navy, 43,000 in the army, balance in the air force.

Those wishing a question unanswered to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times." Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not publish confidential or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Spice Magic Created In Gingerbread Treat

By Penny Saver

How some women get all their energy I'll never know. One friend of mine is always on the go, working all week, attending art classes, looking after hubby, sewing, knitting, making mugs and bowls out of clay as well as keeping a spotless house. It seems as if every minute of her time is spent doing something. Whenever visitors arrive whether expected or not, she always has a delicious treat baking in the oven or cooling in the fridge. The last time I visited this couple, the highlight of her coffee tray was the tastiest gingerbread cake that I've ever eaten.

My friend's secret was an easy-to-prepare mix. All you have to do is add one egg and water and beat. Pour the mixture into layer cake pans and bake for 25 minutes, or in one eight-inch square pan for 45 minutes. The spicy results are enough to make anyone ask for a second serving. For a special lunch-box treat, pack a big gingerbread square into each box. Your family will love it. Price of two packages of this mix is 43 cents.

Speaking of lunches, I can think of nothing more maddening than to "watch the clock" all morning until noon finally comes, only to realize that your carefully packed lunch is still on the kitchen table at home.

The situation is even worse if you must run a few errands during lunch hour and don't have time to stop for a bite to eat. If this happens to you nip into one shop and ask for a tangy cheese sandwich, or a taste-tempting wonder made with a type of sausage. The proprietor of this store makes them as you order, served to you in a bag so that you can whip right out again. Prices are 25 and 30 cents.

While you're in this shop, pick up a few packages of pudding mix for the family's dessert. You add the powder to boiling milk and sugar; stir, pour in serving dishes and cool until dinner is finished. They're not only delicious, but nutritious as well. For something different, serve these with canned fruit. The puddings come in five different flavors, priced at 12 cents the package.

Looking for a tasty treat? Give me a call at 382-3131 and I'll tell you where to find these.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Time for Hubby To Shape Up

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I had been advised many times to investigate my husband's activities when he was supposedly working evenings on a second job. I finally did and found out from his employers that his hours were not what he said they were. I also found out that he was having an affair before and after work with a married woman whose husband worked nights.

When I confronted him with the evidence he said, "You should feel ashamed to have people bring to your face evidence that you aren't capable of holding your husband."

Who do you think should feel ashamed? The husband (and father of six) who professes to be a Christian and got caught in his sin? Or the wife who had so much trust for 22 years that she refused to believe it until she had proof from witnesses?

MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED: Tell your husband that you will handle your "shame" and he can handle his. And if he doesn't shape up and fly right, he may have to "pay" for his shame — and plenty!

DEAR ABBY: I am dating a boy who is working his way through college. When he asks me for a date, I panic because I know he is going to ask me where I want to go. I never know whether to say to the movies, bowling, dinner or what because I never know how much money he has to spend.I am always afraid if I say I want to go somewhere that costs more than he has, he will borrow the money to take me.*DEAR WORRIED: When a young man asks you where you want to go, throw the ball back at him and insist that he offer some suggestions. Then you make a choice from HIS suggestions. That way you won't have to worry about his spending more than he can afford.

DEAR ABBY: I am successful, highly respected, supposedly intelligent professional in a n with a wonderful wife and family. Sounds perfect, doesn't it? Well, here is my problem, and I hate myself for it:

When my wife is away from me for one night I become filled with such anxieties about her becoming ill, meeting with an accident, or having a fling with another man. I practically go out of my mind. She has never given me any reason to worry about her, or to doubt her, but I can't help these thoughts. I don't sleep a wink, and I end up calling her at a ridiculous hour to see if she's "all right" — or maybe I'm just checking up on her.

Then I start nagging her to come home. Yesterday she flew 1500 miles to visit her parents, and I swore it wouldn't happen again, but it has! It's 3 a.m., and I've just telephoned her. What's wrong with me?

DEAR MISERABLE: Even though you are a successful, highly-respected, intelligent professional man can have emotional problems. You obviously need help in controlling your imagination. Tell your doctor about your "anxieties" and let him help you.

They can be removed, but this seems a rather extreme measure, and they will develop again. Why not hide them instead?

Use a foundation which is a little darker in color than your natural skintone, nearer the color of the freckles. There are also waterproof products which will cover freckles.

Lots of folks think that freckles are attractive so don't be too unhappy about the situation, especially when you can calm them down with makeup.

Q. I received an electric razor for Christmas, and I am not sure whether or not I should shave my legs first. What is the best way to shave legs even with a usual razor?

A. When you use your electric razor the legs should be dry. Shave before your bath. If you use the regular kind, lather the legs well first. Either shave in the bath or right afterwards when the hair is soft. Shave from the ankle up toward the knee, with long smooth strokes.

No, shaving will not make the hair grow back thicker or coarser. It may feel that way because the ends are stubby after cutting rather than tapered as they naturally are.

A temperamental weatherman decided to smile on the annual bridge-luncheon at the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club. Reluctant to miss the temporary sunshine, these guests pose for a picture before getting down to the serious business of bridge. Left to right, they are Mrs. J. Fleming, Mrs. Hugh Borsman, Mrs. G. R. Clay, ladies' captain Mrs. E. R. Rickinson, Mrs. J. L. Heffernan and Mrs. T. A. P. Jackson of Nanaimo, president of the senior ladies' division for Vancouver Island. (Bill Halkett photo.)

AT ROYAL COLWOOD

Spring Makes Arrival

The calendar said February 9 but any woman would have been forgiven for believing it was spring when she entered the clubhouse of the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club, Thursday afternoon.

In true feminine style, members of the ladies' division decided to cancel out the winter season — at least for a day — and wear the best and most appealing of spring ensembles for the division's annual bridge-luncheon. Luckily, the weatherman co-operated and women were able to say a delighted good-bye to the raincoats and boots that have been 'rig of the day' for far too many days this winter.

WINS & CHAPEAU

With obvious tenacity and wielding of the green thumb, decorations chairman Mrs. Jack Fraser had coaxed Mother Nature into co-operating in this annual rushing of the season. The clubhouse was illuminated with a garden worthy of a magician. Banks of early flowering plum blossoms, coaxed by her determined care, were there to gladden the eye, each arrangement goldened with the touch of daffodils. Milk-white china candlesticks on the head table held candles in plum pink that perfectly complemented the plum blossom and camellias that added their glory to the setting.

POPULAR EVENT

Years of tradition and savoring have made this annual bridge-luncheon one that few would miss. In view of this, the division with its rapidly increasing membership, had limited the numbers of guests members could bring so that as many new members as possible could attend. Fifty tables of bridge were in play but many more guests were content just to come and enjoy the atmosphere, gay with spring flowers and outfit, and sample some of the most delicious sandwiches and cookies ever to be set on plates.

Chairman of the house committee, Mrs. A. Marshall, was general convener. In charge of luncheon arrangements was Mrs. Roy H. Anderson. The latter wore a pert chapeau which she had bought in Portland, Ore. The wide-brimmed straw confection was shaped like those worn by Jack Tars in the days when man-o'-wars used sail to sweep them into action. But, the saucy flowers that banded her hat would have

Mothers' Group To Raise Funds

The hall of Sacred Heart Church will be the scene of a Valentine tea and bazaar, Saturday. The affair will last from 2 to 4 p.m., and is being arranged by the Lake Hill Rangers, Guides and Brownies, Mothers' Association in order to raise money for the three youth programs.

Immediately after the official opening by Mrs. J. McKeever, area commissioner, 25 of the Guides will be presented with Red Cross home nursing certificates by Mrs. S. Cave, RN, chairman of home nursing and kitchen cupboard, Red Cross House.

General convener for the afternoon is Mrs. H. J. Williams and Mrs. D. Cambrey is in charge of the tea room.

Mrs. W. S. Emmerton will act as judge for a cake decorating contest in which girls of the three groups will compete. The cakes will then be used for a cake walk, to be organized by Mrs. Woods.

Mrs. James Wood will be in charge of a home baking stall, Mrs. R. Pottinger will convene a stall of sewing and Mrs. R. McGlade will handle a white elephant stall.

Toronto Design Tops Canadian Style Show

MONTREAL (CP) — Designer Ruth Dukas of Toronto Thursday night was presented the Union Label Award, grand prize in the annual showing of original fashions in the National Collection of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

Her winning outfit was an evening ensemble in two weights of wool.

The coat, made of Italian pink textured wool, featured a round neckline and a panelled front heavily beaded with pearls. The dress, made of fine white wool, had underarm folds forming a smooth front and back panel.

The ensemble, one of dozens of originals shown to fashion writers, also won the Critics Award in the category of ball gowns.

Winners of Critics Awards in other categories were:

Frankroy, Winnipeg, for a slack suit of bright orange wool incorporating a tunic-length jacket with back pleats and a fencing collar.

Ben Liebman, Toronto, for a dress and stole made from a wool blanket with the stole attached to the gown by a concealed zipper.

Winners from Montreal were: Joshar, receiving two awards; Aukie, Sanft; Gerson; Lydia Sporlich, Reinhart; Lydia Fashions; Pedigree; Eleanor Ellis; and Portrait Gowns.

Screaming Crowd Protests Arrest of Topless Cellist

NEW YORK (UPI) — A half dozen policemen jumped to a stage and arrested New York's latest topless entertainer Thursday night — a topless woman cello player. The police action touched off a wild demonstration among the audience.

At least 10 police cars responded and police had to hold back screaming crowds to carry out Charlotte Moorman, 25, who was still holding her cello.

"Dirty cops! Dirty cops!" the audience of about 200 began chanting. Charlotte burst into tears. "Mayor Lindsay allows this. He let the Watusi do it. I've done it all over Europe."

The "Watusi" Miss Moorman referred to was an African dance group that performed in New York several weeks ago. The girl dancers in the group performed native dances, with their breasts bare.

The police jumped to the stage of the Cinematique Theatre on West 41st Street, one block from Times Square, while Miss Moorman was playing Brahms Lullaby while two battery-powered propellers taped to her breasts whirled.

"You're under arrest," a plainclothesman told the musician, grabbing her by the wrist of her bowhand. "It's only a happening," cried the author of the performance, Nam June Tan, who calls himself a composer of "happenings, concerts and action music."

Miss Moorman balked at accompanying the police.

One policeman said to her, "Come to the police station and you'll be out in 30 minutes."

"Try to understand," the prisoner wailed over and over.

"We do understand, Charlotte," a detective replied. "But you're holding up the DETECTIVES arrest Charlotte Moorman, 25, in a Times Square theatre Thursday night after she came onstage in a topless costume to perform on the cello. She said she was to have played her first number wearing an "electric bikini" and had planned later in the program to play in the nude. (AP Wirephoto).

wheels of progress."

Miss Moorman was taken to a police station where she was booked for lewd and indecent exposure.

Shortly before the arrest, Nam June Tan appeared in front of the theatre's curtain and shouted into the darkened audience: "Mr. Policeman? Is it all right if we go on?" He parted the curtain with his hands and, behind him, sat Miss Moorman holding her cello to one side and wearing only a black woolen skirt.

"Okay Mr. Policeman? Is it okay?" Nam June Tan asked again.

There was no immediate response, but a woman in the audience called, "sure, go ahead." And the show started — but didn't get very far.

By taking turns at the bar, the beer-drinking team has been at it for 560 hours down at Fraser's pub and the end is not in sight.

The original goal—to shatter the U.S. record of 320 hours set in 1956 by Michigan State—went down the hatch long ago.

It started Jan. 5 when the 12 — nine men and three women—discovered they all had a taste for beer.

The rules require a team member to down 12 ounces of brew every 30 minutes while in the bar and the total now stands at 13,480 ounces.

Bill Fraser, pub owner, has his bartenders keeping score.

"Why not?" he asked. "Spectators are coming in to watch. And, of course, we encourage them to participate."

USE PLATOONS

Mike Trux, team captain and a senior in civil engineering, says the team uses the platoon system, allowing unlimited substitution.

Cutting classes is forbidden and Ginger Redd, a red-haired lass on the beer brigade, says she has been "studying harder than ever" since the spree began.

Trux estimates each team member spends about 20 hours a week in the pub.

Jack Weiman, a graduate student in English, is the anchor man. His consumption amounts to about 8,400 ounces, nearly equal to the entire input of the Michigan State champion ship campaign 11 years ago.

Train Gets Queen Photo

OTTAWA (CP)—The centennial commission will take immediate steps to have the Queen's photograph placed in the Confederation Train, Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday in the Commons.

He said in reply to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that the commission will "resend its omission" of not having the Queen's picture in the train.

Mr. Diefenbaker called the omission unjustifiable.

Buy Soviet Arms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Iran, a perennial recipient of military aid from the United States, has decided to buy weapons from the Soviet Union. U.S. officials said Tuesday night. It was reported the Iranians will trade natural gas for $30,000,000 to $100,000,000 worth of aircraft guns, trucks and other transportation equipment.

Oldest Choir Plans Recital

A Victoria male voice choir said to be the oldest on the Pacific coast will present a program of song Feb. 20 at Centennial United Church, Gorge Road at David St.

The 50-year-old Arion Male Choir, leader Frank Tupman, will donate proceeds of the 8 p.m. recital to Sixth Camosun district Cubs, Scouts and Venturers.

Admission price to the program, encompassing spiritual, classical and "old standard" titles, is 75 cents.

He looked grim.

"All over the country some men won't reach their homes," he said. "Some will be hauled from their wrecked cars and taken to hospitals; broken and bleeding."

"Others will end up on a cold slab down at the morgue—customers for the coroner."

Ridley, who owns a hotel and a pub in two different parts of the country, is trying to get the up again in late afternoon and law changed so that those five stay open until 10:30 or 11 p.m.

NUTCRACKER BIG SMASH IN EAST

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—The National Ballet Company presented The Nutcracker at Confederation Centre Theatre Thursday night to a sell-out audience, including State Secretary Judy LaMarsh who arrived from Ottawa by air earlier in the evening.

A matinee performance was given by the ballet for 700 school children.

This was the first time during the current tour of the ballet that the whole Nutcracker could be performed.

MORE BEER!

Record Goes Down The Drain

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Twelve University of Michigan students are revelling in the joys of the draft, but the draft they dreamily endorse comes from the barrel, not the selective service.

By taking turns at the bar, the beer-drinking team has been at it for 560 hours down at Fraser's pub and the end is not in sight.

POWER OF POSITIVE READING

Miss Fright Now Fearless Phyllis

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — All the way to age 35 I was a human mess. Hypersensitive. Scared. A dirty loon would put me in a fetal position."

This was Phyllis Diller, the human dust mop, sounding as if her initials stood for PhD.

"I was afraid of the dark, of people, of authority, of the neighbors."

"If I was called into the boss' office I was sure I was going to be fired."

Miss Diller was a $50-a-week copygirl in a department store's advertising department when, one day, she spied on her supervisor's shelf a book titled The Magic of Believing, by Claude M. Bristol.

She perused it, bought her own copy, "memorized it, lived it." She credits it with changing her life and buys the book "by the carload" to give to friends.

HAVE A BALL

"I put all my fears in one bundle and spit on 'em," she says. "The same fears everybody faces — old age, loss of sex, loved ones, money, job."

"I figured, what is the basic fear? Dying. But everybody's through life? If you have to die God is in him. 'God is love' tomorrow, you'd better make it I'll buy that. Everybody's life great today. Plan it so that if it should be a prayer."

She believes most illnesses are psychosomatic. "You create the effect and the cause follows."

Raised by a fundamentalist mother, Phyllis was assailed at eight or 10 by doubts about heaven. She progressed gradually from agnostic to atheist, she says: "When I picked that book up I owed everybody for everything." She recalls:

"To some people God is an old man with a beard, sitting on a cloud. To me, belief in God is a frightened group. Now they call yourself and belief in God are me Fearless Phyllis. I grow the same. A person is alive, and every day."

Different Abilities In Feeling of Pain

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

In the course of a few months this threshold in a person will vary only from 15 to 20 per cent. With fatigue, there is a tendency toward a slight decrease in the threshold. Interestingly and surprisingly, Dr. Notermans says he cannot find any great differences in the measurements in men as compared with those in women.

Also, he has not found any age difference. Many physicians have felt almost certain that old people do not feel pain as acutely as do young people. Perhaps they were wrong.

If Noterman's instrument is accurate, we physicians will now have to change our ideas about the greater sensitivity of women. There can be no doubt that many women feel much anticipation of pain, while others perhaps are less stoical about pain than is the average man.

Trails Sought For Horsemen

A meeting of outdoorsmen has been called for Sunday at Strawberry Vale Hall, starting at 1 p.m., to discuss the development of trails for hikers and horsemen on Vancouver Island.

Shirley Pike of 1590 West Burnside Road said the meeting will also discuss a proposal to amalgamate all outdoor groups or a central body representing them.

The restoration of the west coast trail between Bamfield and Port Renfrew and the preservation of the coast as a natural recreational area will also be discussed, she said.

Man Took Alarm Clock To Buy Drinks

A man who shoplifted an alarm clock to get money for drinks pleaded guilty to theft when he appeared in central court Thursday.

James Smith, 62, of 100 Courtney St. will be held in jail until he appears for sentence Feb. 17.

A woman store detective at The Bay told the court she followed Smith to a washroom at Centennial Square Wednesday after watching him take the clock from a store counter. A police officer entered the washroom, recovered the $1.85 clock and arrested the accused.

Smith told police later he stole the clock to get money for drinks. He had been drinking at the time of the incident, court was told.

Donations Pour In For 4-H Project

Donations have started to pour in for the establishment of a provincial young people's 4-H camp.

Since the Centennial project was endorsed by the provincial 4-H Advisory Council in Victoria last month, a total of $143 has been turned into the fund, Wayne Wickens, 4-H specialist, said today.

The objective is $10,000 to be raised within the next three years from clubs scattered throughout the province. There are 3,282 members in the farm movement. This amounts to about three dollars per person.

The camp will be used as a centre for training young people during 4-H provincial week in the summer and for leadership and citizenship training courses.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Debra Cajozoli, age 10, of West Norwich, Long Island, New York, for her question:

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by children and those who submit the best answers will receive valuable worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 62-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Debra Cajozoli, age 10, of West Norwich, Long Island, New York, for her question:

How many kinds of snakes are poisonous?

Some people shudder when snakes are mentioned. Certainly some of the creepy crawlers are deadly horrors, but most of them are harmless creatures. It seems unfair to detect them all just because a few cannot be trusted. It is also sad because snakes are handsome, interesting and often useful.

Many experts have had a go at counting the kinds of poisonous snakes one by one. But their answers do not agree. Perhaps some get missed or a few get counted more than once. In any case, you will find different answers in different books and if you ask several snake experts they, too, will give you different answers. However, all the different answers are close. We can study them and settle on an approximate figure, one that is more or less in the middle. Most experts might agree that there are approximately 250 poisonous kinds of snake. But there may be a few more or a few less than 250.

This seems like a lot of poison-packing to be crawling around the world. But when you consider all the harmless snakes, the poisonous types are in a minority. In fact, they are a very small minority. Altogether there are almost 3,000 snakes in the world, though not all of them have been named and classified. Only about 8 per cent are poisonous. You could list all the snakes and divide them into 30 groups of 100. Chances are, only eight snakes in each group would be bad guys and 92 of them would be good guys—or fairly good guys.

This does not mean that we can take chances. You may meet a poisonous snake almost anywhere outdoors in the wilds. The polar regions are safe, because snakes cannot abide the cold. But almost everywhere else, several snakes live in the neighborhood and at least one may be poisonous. Some types stay on the western prairies and others lurk in the southern swamps. There are midwestern types and New Englanders. It is wise to learn about the poisonous snakes in your own neighborhood, what they look like and where they are likely to be found.

These fellows wear gaudy rings from head to tail—black and yellow, black and red and red and yellow. These are beautiful but also among the most deadly snakes on our continent.

A few snakes can inject poison from their small back or side teeth. But they are not deadly dangerous to human beings. A really poisonous snake has a pair of fangs in his upper jaw. The cobra's fangs are straight and fixed in an upright position. The viper type and the pit viper have fangs that fold back out of sight when not in use. Our coral snakes are cobra types. The rattlesnakes are copperhead and the water moccasin all have fold-away fangs.

Andy sends a World Book Encyclopedia to Linda Rogers, age 13, of Cedartown, Georgia, for her question:

Is it correct to call a beetle an animal?

Biologists know of a few microscopic living things that seem to be neither plants nor animals. They have a sort of world of their own. However, all the living things that we are likely to meet in the everyday world are either plants or animals. They are classified in the Plant Kingdom and the Animal Kingdom.

A beetle, of course, is certainly not a plant. So he must be an animal of the Animal Kingdom. And so he is. He is an insect of the animal class Insecta.

Everyone, of course, knows that the fury, four-footed mammals are animals. And many people tend to think that they are the only animals. It is, however, correct to say that a beetle is an animal.

PROTECT CHILDTangible Evidence Lacking

By ELIZABETH FORBES

If Mrs. Grace McCarthy could shepherd through the legislature new laws to protect children from abuse and beatings inflicted by parents or guardians (as she urged in her maiden speech last Tuesday) she would vindicate her position as a minister without portfolio and she would have earned her salary.

Laws as they exist at present make it almost impossible to drag such abuses into the light and to punish the offenders.

Social workers, doctors, teachers and others who come in contact with them appear to be ill-treatment of this sort, find their hands tied because present statutes covering this phase of child protection have very blunt teeth.

Well over a year ago I pointed out that the British Columbia Protection of Children Act, Chapter 303, Section 7 (revised statutes, 1963) lists 15 reasons for apprehension of children in need of protection.

But it isn't until we come to the last one that we find the child who "is ill-treated so as to be in peril in respect of his life, health or mortality" continued personal injury."

Apprehension of such a child (designated as under age of 18) is the duty of the superintendent of child welfare, police or probation officers. It is also their duty to bring such cases before a judge.

There is a penalty set out in the act. A fine not exceeding $100, or imprisonment for a period of not exceeding one year — or both.

Trouble is that almost unsurmountable difficulties surround the bringing of an offender before the judge for this completely inadequate punishment.

In the act, under "custody of the child," Section 37, Part 2, you'll find that "no person is liable to be convicted of an offence unless the testimony admitted by virtue of this section and given on behalf of the prosecution is corroborated by some other material evidence implicating the accused."

Parents or guardians sallow and depraved enough to continually abuse children are also cunning enough to cover up and minimize these abuses.

Couple this fact with the section of the act I have quoted and you will see that while a doctor or a teacher or a neighbor may suspect or even be aware of the truth, they would find it almost impossible to accuse.

Social workers are in much the same position. They go into a home and they see what instinct tells them is the result of abuse. But if there is no tangible evidence (if no one saw or will tell of the actual happening) they can do little or nothing.

New and stronger laws are certainly needed (in fact are long overdue) to assure identification, protection and treatment for children who have had injuries inflicted upon them by their parents or others responsible for their care.

Since injuries of this nature are seen most frequently by doctors in hospitals or in private practice, they are in the best position to form reasonable preliminary judgment on how the injuries occurred.

It would seem sensible then that in any new law doctors be given the duty of reporting such injuries as they do in the case of gunshot wounds.

Reasonable judgment on the part of a responsible citizen (other than doctor) that the injuries are not explainable as having happened accidentally, that they were inflicted upon the child and they were inflicted in the family home, should also be enough.

There isn't a person with a conscience who doesn't acknowledge the right of the young to live and be loved. There isn't a person with a conscience who wouldn't fight to save a child from abuse.

In her maiden speech last Tuesday Mrs. McCarthy would have us believe she is one of these persons.

If this is so then as a minister of government let us hope she will win a new law (or new clauses in the old act) that will fully protect the abused child and severely punish parents or guardians who inflict such abuse.

We'll have to wait and see.

Military Cross Holder Dies In Victoria

Holder of the Military Cross for bravery in the First World War, Capt. Austin Craven, 73, died Tuesday in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Born in Streford, England, in 1893, Capt. Craven came to Victoria in 1913.

He served in the 30th Battalion and later the 3rd South Lancashire Regiment, receiving the Military Cross for bravery on the field. He was wounded five times in battle.

He retired from the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway in 1958 after 45 years of service.

The deceased was a member of the Knights of Columbus Nanaimo Council, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Royal Canadian Legion in Victoria and Nanaimo.

He was predeceased by his wife.

Capt. Craven is survived by three daughters, Mrs. R. Biodeau and Mrs. R. St. Amour of Montreal, and Mrs. C. McArthur, 1855 Newton St., Victoria; a son, Mr. Austin Craven, 1836 Richardson, 23 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted this morning in St. Andrew's Cathedral by Rev. Father Bullock. Interment followed in Cedar Valley Memorial Park, Nanaimo.

Operator Found Guilty Of Fraud

The operator of a supper club which lasted just two weeks was remanded in custody Wednesday afternoon after being convicted of fraudulently obtaining lodgings.

Theodore Kostinuk, 24, who leased Surfside '62 at 4558 Cordova Bay Rd., will be returned to court Feb. 16 to face five counts of obtaining money under false pretences.

Earlier Wednesday a similar four-count charge was dismissed.

Court was told Kostinuk tried to set up the supper club but the venture failed Dec. 30 when he wrote to cover lodgings and the staff payroll proved worthless.

The accused said an arrangement for $10,000 backing failed over the terms the backer wanted for his investment.

DEMANDED PAY

When employees demanded their pay and a motel owner presented his lodging bill Dec. 30, Kostinuk wrote nine cheques for about $2,000 on an account opened two hours before a deposit of just over $13, he testified.

He had expected to get covering funds from Vancouver man but the deal broke down as did talks with Los Angeles night club interests.

"This babe in a very tangled wood with no experience in this field tried to become a big-time operator — an instant Del Monico — in a field that defeats many experienced persons," Magistrate Ostler commented in handing down his verdict.

Driving In Dark Ends In $300 Fine

Thomas Leonard Hoare, 18, of New Westminster, was fined $300 in Sidney court Thursday when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

His car was stopped by Sidney RCMP near midnight Wednesday night after it was seen speeding on the Pat Bay Highway without headlights.

Hoare's driving licence was suspended for six months.

He was driving at 100 km/h.

Hoare was driving at 100 km/h.

Japan Plans Penalty

Surcharge Eyed For Dock Losses

Times News Services

VANCOUVER — Japanese shippers today postponed to March 1 a 15 per cent surcharge on all cargoes from Japan to Vancouver following a storm of protest from Canadians.

The new rates were to have come into effect today.

The surcharges are apparently in retaliation for the Vancouver dock strike last fall that cut heavily into Japanese sales of mandarin oranges and other goods costing Japanese shippers about $100,000 per day.

E. M. Strang, president of the British Columbia Maritime Employers' Association, said he was notified of the postponement in a wire from the Trans-Pacific Freight Conference of Japan.

Mr. Strang said he hoped this would mean the Japanese shippers would eventually abandon the surcharge plan, which would have meant increased prices of Japanese goods in Canada.

LABOR DISPUTE

Imposition of the surcharge was announced Thursday in a telegram from the shippers to the Vancouver Merchants' Exchange. The wire cited a "current labor dispute" as the reason, and said the surcharge would be effective today.

The surcharge brought a storm of protest from shipping officials here.

"The conditions which gave rise to the surcharge no longer exist," said Capt. B. D. L. Johnson, Vancouver port manager, in a statement released through his office here.

Capt. Johnson, in Ottawa on national harbors board business, said in an interview at the capital he has sent a "strong note of protest" to the Japanese freight conference.

The B.C. dock dispute was resolved in early December and port officials announced two weeks ago that the big backlog of ships had been cleared. Port activities, they said, had returned to normal.

Capt. Johnson said in his message to Japan the congestion has been cleared and that at present, there are no disputes or strikes threatening shipping along the B.C. coast.

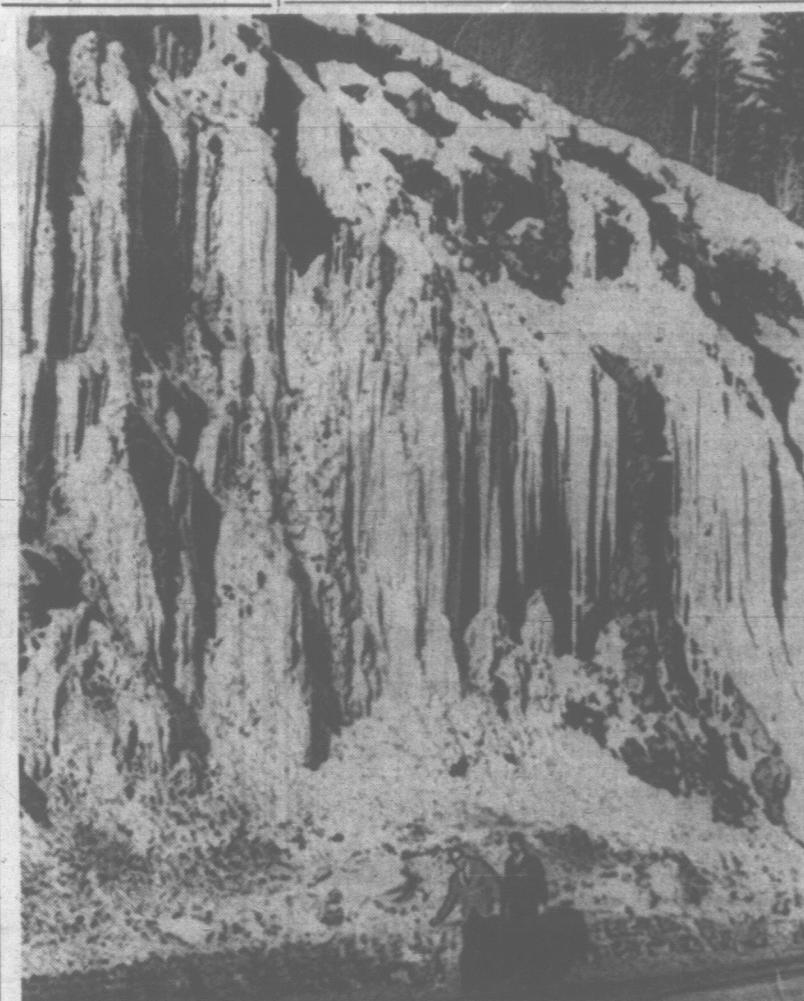

Takeshi Sakurachi, an official of Mitsui and Co. Ltd., a major Japanese export-import firm here, said that if the shipping conference sticks to its guns, the surcharge would have a serious impact on the B.C. economy.

He said he believes the conference is also considering imposition of a surcharge on goods moving the other way—from B.C. to Japan.

This, said Mr. Sakurachi, would seriously hurt B.C. exports of iron, copper and nickel concentrates, grain, pulp and paper. Japan, he said, is the port of Vancouver's second-biggest customer after the U.S.

China Claims Pair Stole Atomic Secrets

TOKYO (AP) — The first atomic spy case in China, the newest member of the five-nation nuclear club, was reported today. There was speculation in Tokyo that it would be used to whip up more public fury against the Soviet Union. Quoting the Revolutionary

Workers' Daily, a newspaper loyal to Mao Tse-tung, the Peiping correspondent of the Tokyo newspaper Mainichi Shimbun said two men in the chemical industry ministry have been arrested on a charge of stealing atomic secrets.

One of them was identified as an official named Ting Tien-sheng. The nature of the secrets was not specified. The paper said Security Minister Hsien Fu-chih, an ally of Mao, was investigating to determine whether any of the information got to a foreign country. The foreign country was not named.

The spy report came amid continuing daily anti-Soviet demonstrations in Peking and anti-Chinese demonstrations in Moscow.

The Soviet government today published the text of a protest note to the Chinese government implying that it was hindering the flow of Soviet aid to North Vietnam.

RESTRICTION HURTS

The note said restriction of Soviet personnel in Peking to their quarters prevented their exercising their normal functions such as those connected with providing military and economic aid to the Vietnamese.

The atomic spy case also came at a moment of apparent reorientation in Mao's campaign to regain control of the government and party machinery from President Liu Shao-chi, Party General Secretary Teng Hsiao-ping and their supporters.

There are no available antibiotics capable of curing anyone who contracts the infection from the whale, doctors said in warning residents not to try cutting up the carcass for disposal.

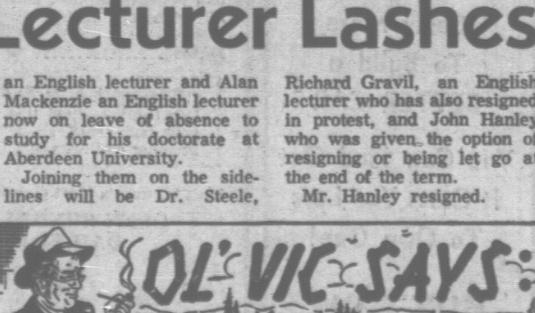

The whale may be towed out to sea and sunk with naval gunfire.

Ousted Officers' Testimony Demanded on Defence Unity

Brief By TRIO Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — The Tri-Service Identities Organization today called for a full examination of the "basic errors in the higher levels of the defence department which caused 11 of 14 senior officers to leave the services."

In a brief to the Commons defence committee, TRIO said all the officers concerned should be called before the committee.

TRIO feels that it is imperative to the safety of this nation that the government insist upon these officers giving their testimony.

The abolition of three distinct services will lead to a reduction in professional competence and may well lead to Canada doing less for its own defence. This would mean greater dependence on our allies, notably the U.S."

The organization also presented a batch of telegrams from supporting TRIO branches and individuals across the country.

One of the telegrams came from former Commodore Harold Gross, brother of committee chairman David Gross (L-Victoria).

HITS UNIFICATION

It is said in part: "Fervently support contention unification armed forces inimical to our country's interests. Effect on morale already evident and without this priceless quality even best equipped and organized forces could not live up to our military traditions."

The committee is studying the government's armed forces unification bill. Witnesses next week will include three retired admirals, among them Rear-Admiral William Landymore, dismissed last summer as chief of Maritime Command, and Gen. Charles Foulkes, former chairman of the chiefs of staff committee.

In its brief, TRIO said no case has been made for unification.

"This is a dangerous experiment untried by any other country and without military merit. The only certain point is that the initial cost for new uniforms will be $40,000,000 or a tax of $2 for every Canadian."

WANTS DETAILS

The organization said it is alarmed by the "unwillingness" of Defence Minister Hellyer to reveal any detailed plan for unification to the armed forces or the public.

The roles of the services must be emphatically and unequivocally stated."

TRIO said each serviceman should be given the right to leave the services without financial penalty if he does not wish to transfer to the united forces.

Under the bill, transfer is compulsory to the single service.

TRIO was established last spring by several retired officers to oppose armed forces unification. It now has branches in Block Island and small-craft warnings are still displayed near the coast."

The brief, presented by three retired Toronto officers — Robert Hilborn, Robert Hendry and George Penfold — said efforts are being made to ensure that service officers favorable to integration-unification are given preference in promotion.

U.S. REPORTS TRUCE VIOLATED 267 TIMES

SAIGON (Reuters) — The Viet Cong have broken the Lunar New Year truce 267 times in its first 58 hours, United States and South Vietnamese military spokesmen alleged today.

The Viet Cong's clandestine radio accused the Americans of 62 violations in the first day of the truce and said the U.S. had ordered naval, air and artillery bombardments.

Scattered but small-scale shooting incidents today continued to mar the ceasefire.

LEGISLATION INTRODUCED

Quebec to Outlaw Teachers' Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson today tabled in the legislature a bill which would within 48 hours after it becomes law end the current teachers' strikes in Quebec.

Under terms of the bill, certain labor agreements now being negotiated will see the old contracts extended to June 30, 1968.

The premier said the bill will "set up a province-wide mechanism of negotiation."

He specified that despite government measures, no teacher's salary will drop, or even remain stationary.

Their representatives will be consulted about salaries by the government, he added.

Full details of the proposed legislation were not immediately available.

At least some of the teachers threatened they may resign rather than be forced back to the classrooms by the new legislation.

Even as the legislation was being studied, more Roman Catholic teachers went out on strike today.

Closed were eight elementary schools in the communities of Champlain, Fort Champlain, St. Bruno and St. Basile, where 150 teachers walked out, affecting the education of more than 5,000 students. These communities are 15 miles east of Montreal.

It is understood that the authorities arrived at their decision not to re-hire Mr. Mackenzie prior to his actual departure for Scotland, although the decision was kept secret and the funds making his study trip possible advanced.

It is also understood that the university will not request a refund of the $2,300.

Eventually, I hope that some well-meaning philanthropist will judge the nature of the continuing brouhaha that has flared, again at University of Victoria, and take appropriate action.

This would be to endow an entirely separate and much smaller university which would draw to itself those young and not-so-young people doomed by their natures and intellectual equipment to a fermentation which no standard academic bottle should be required to contain.

These would be decanted from the main student body, which would be left to pursue its course without peace-shattering incidents. Interchanges between the two institutions would be strictly screened, since any infiltration of one group by the other could upset both applecarts.

However, since the prospect of such a separation is unlikely in any foreseeable future, I suppose we must struggle along with what we have.

This is not a united and cohesive student population, but two totally unlike factions that share one campus.

Each has an essential place in the scheme of things. I would not venture to say, either, which gets the most out of its university years.

Their purposes in going to university may overlap in spots, but remain basically different.

The one group, which is and will always be the largest, is there for job training. It contains many of the most earnest scholars and scholarship winners. Those who comprise it will move on to grace the sturdier occupations and professions, where they can be counted on to perform both steadily and capably.

They are worthy, necessary people, and our society would crumble without them.

But we also need the others—the hodge-podge of radicals, activists, dissidents, free-thinking humanists and artists of all kinds and degrees. These are concerned, not with preserving the status quo, but with kicking the tar out of it, and in the process they occasionally manage to improve the human condition.

That smaller group seeks further and to some extent different values from a university.

Its members expect to challenge and be challenged. For the instructor who can and will help them expand their minds, they cherish a fierce devotion. They draw their own line between the fact-pumper and the educator. They are unawed by tradition, and they demand academic freedom for those who teach them.

In the case of the "fired" faculty members at University of Victoria, also those who resigned in the course of the current disagreement, they have presented their points with vigor and clarity. Having made their views known, I urge them now to content themselves with a watching brief until an appeal committee has performed its limited function.

To its report on dismissals, I hope will be added reasons valid in the light of modern educational procedure to explain why teaching contracts held by Instructor Joseph Schwartz and Dr. Charles Tarlton are not to be renewed.

It may prove unfortunate for the academic calm, but those students who have learned to question are likely to expect answers.

Meanwhile, those concerned in this dustup might also keep in mind that there's no whispering-gallery like a campus. Today, rumors plain and fancy are buzzing about the academic groves at a great rate. They are also escaping to the outside world, where they can do, and in fact are doing considerable harm to the university's reputation.

Of course, if we had that dream-university I spoke of at the beginning, situations of the present sort wouldn't arise.

Lacking it, I think we had better get used to fairly frequent crises on Vic's two-in-one campus.

Such a climate isn't likely to inspire the growth of ivy on the outside of those college walls. But it could make for a very healthy yeast within them.

ROADBLOCKS OUT TONIGHT YOU'VE BEEN WARNED!

City police will operate road safety checks tonight. Advance word on the checks is a new public relations approach which the force wants to test, Chief J. F. Gregory and Inspector Richard Berry said this morning.

As in the past, teams of police spotted about the city will stop drivers, checking safety equipment and keeping an eye out for drinking drivers.

Saanich Pays $196,000 For Property

Almost all the land needed to widen and reconstruct McKenzie Avenue has been acquired by Saanich, municipal assessor Jack Lindsay said today.

Only one more property, and a few small pieces, are left in the acquisition program. Cost has been about $196,000.

Mr. Lindsay said Saanich owns "about six" houses along the widened and new route of the road. One will be demolished and the rest sold to be moved.

The new McKenzie will link up with Ruby Road and Sinclair Road in the east, providing a cross-Saanich thoroughfare to the Patricia Bay Highway.

New route of McKenzie is shown by the dotted line in above photo, with the University of Victoria in the distance.

The provincial government has decided the new route a secondary highway, making it eligible for 50 per cent of construction and drainage costs from the province.

Work is expected to start next year. Saanich must approach the province before August in each year for funds to be approved in the following year.

Firms Broke Pact, Indians Protest

An Indian chief today charged the Canadian Puget Sound Logging Co. with failing to live up to an agreement to hire Indians as boom men at its Becher Bay booming grounds.

Chief Thomas Charles of the East Sooke Indian reserve said he is filing a complaint with the Indian Affairs office at Duncan and is considering legal action against C.P.S.

The chief said the Indian band at Becher Bay leased a part of the reserve to the company for use as a booming ground several years ago.

Under the terms of the agreement, the company agreed to hire Indians as boom men, he claimed.

FIGHT TO END'

"They haven't done so for years," he said. "The excuse given by one official is that Indians are unreliable. I challenge that and I'm going to fight this to the end."

He said 75 per cent of the boom men at the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. booming ground at Plumper Bay are Indians.

"This company has never questioned the reliability of Indians as boom men," he said.

Approved in the following year.

3rd Year Student Elected President Of AMS at Uvic

University of Victoria students Thursday elected David McLean, a third-year political science and history major, new president of the Alma Mater Society.

Mr. McLean, 21, polled 675 votes, defeating his only opponent, Stephen Sullivan, by 27 votes. Fewer than a third of Uvic students voted.

Mr. McLean takes office for a year, March 15. He advocated a public information campaign about present student objectives in his campaign, and backs present student demands for education grants for out-of-town students.

More Policemen on Foot Please City Merchants

An influx of vagrants from the mainland and eastern points has led city police chief Jack Gregory to put more of his men walking the beat.

The recent increase in men in white walking downtown streets rather than riding police prouls has been well received by shopkeepers and householders, the chief said today.

Tonga Service Used For Women's Prayers

Victoria church women today joined with those of 3,500 communities across Canada in observing World Day of Prayer.

They used a service prepared by the late Queen Salote of Tonga, a dedicated Christian, who for many years led her own people in the annual observance.

First of today's gatherings was held at dawn in the Tonga Islands of the South Pacific, moving westward with the advancing sun until prayers for peace and understanding encircle the world.

In Victoria and Vancouver Island, women of many denominations attended prayer meetings in churches and rest homes this afternoon.

They included the Caroline Macklem Home, Rose Manor,

Many of the vagrants drifting into the city turn out to have criminal records when checked and constitute a petty crime potential better handled by officers walking their patrol areas, the chief said.

The vagrants "are existing on charity, welfare, some of them begging and some shopping and these are the ones we're after."

MAN ADMITS DEFRAUDING MOTOR INN

A man who walked out of a Seanchi motel Monday leaving a $111.75 bill owing pleaded guilty to fraudulently obtaining lodgings when he appeared in court today.

Kelth McNamara, 34, of no fixed address, was remanded to Monday for sentence.

Detective George Walton told the court McNamara stayed at the Red Lion Motor Inn, 3368 Douglas, from Jan. 30 to Feb. 6 before slipping away. He told police he had enough money when he registered but left when he ran out of funds.

Governor Of Alaska Here March 2

Provincial government officials don't know for sure what Alaska's new governor Walter Hickel plans to do in a March 2 visit here but they're looking forward to meeting him.

Gov. Hickel is reported to be intent on meeting Premier Bennett to discuss several important topics but officials here think it's more in the nature of courtesy call than a serious negotiating trip.

We are planning to discuss such things as a Canadian corridor through the Alaska Panhandle, the U.S. Jones Act and development of a dust-free highway to Alaska as well as other matters of mutual interest," Gov. Hickel told a reporter.

Magistrate Ostler committed the Sidney man for trial before a higher court when the hearing concluded at noon today. Two charges of breaking and entering were withdrawn.

Ingram told the doctor of a family argument which preceded the shooting incident. Dr. Alcorn said the accused's history showed a background of conflict with his parents.

Magistrate Ostler committed the Sidney man for trial before a higher court when the hearing concluded at noon today. Two charges of breaking and entering were withdrawn.

Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Loffmark said the B.C. government has had numerous contacts with the Egan administration regarding all three subjects and will be very interested to learn Gov. Hickel's views.

Hopes for a program that would salvage logs and driftwood from coastal beaches and waters dimmed today at the first meeting of the legislative forestry committee.

The committee last year asked provincial government officials to try to discover some method of encouraging private companies to sweep deadheads from waters around Vancouver Island and the mainland shore to provide material for pulp plants.

ECONOMIC

Important side effects of such a program would have cleared cruising grounds of hazards to commercial and pleasure craft and beautified the beaches.

But deputy forest minister F. S. McKinnon said legal and economic problems stand in the way.

Marked logs still belong to their owners even when lost from boats and cannot be taken for anyone else's use under the Criminal Code.

The inspector, Sgt. Ron Bentley and Constable Bud Curry found queries intelligent and penetrating in a question-and-answer period which followed a film and brief lecture on safe walking habits.

The officers said the older people displayed a sharpness not always found when police talk to groups of young people about safety.

Night on Town For Americans

Victoria will be one-night host to more than 500 regular and reserve officers of the U.S. Navy Feb. 18.

The men will visit here aboard the destroyer USS Marshall and ocean-escort Branson and Whitehurst out of Seattle on a training cruise.

The ships are expected here at 5 p.m. on the Friday and will leave next morning.

B.C. 'Should Boycott' Federal Medicare

As Social Credit backbencher Thursday told Premier Bennett: he should boycott the federal government's proposed national medicare program.

James Chabot (SC-Columbia) said in the legislature it would destroy individual liberty because it would be compulsorily universal.

"We have no right to impose medicare on a free society," he said.

"I am opposed to the proposed federal program because it is not a form of socialism but merely socialism by taxation. It is the most

Japan
Plans
PenaltySurcharge Eyed
For Dock Losses

Times News Services
VANCOUVER — Japanese shippers today postponed to March 1 a 15 per cent surcharge on all cargoes from Japan to Vancouver following a storm of protest from Canadians.

The new rates were to have come into effect today.

The surcharges are apparently in retaliation for the Vancouver dock strike last fall that cut heavily into Japanese sales of mandarin oranges and other goods costing Japanese shippers about $100,000 per day.

E. M. Strang, president of the British Columbia Maritime Employers' Association, said he was notified of the postponement in a wire from the trans-Pacific Freight Conference of Japan.

Mr. Strang said he hoped this would mean the Japanese shippers would eventually abandon the surcharge plan, which would have meant increased prices of Japanese goods in Canada.

LABOR DISPUTE

Imposition of the surcharge was announced Thursday in a telegram from the shippers to the Vancouver Merchants' Exchange. The wire cited a "current labor dispute" as the reason, and said the surcharge would be effective today.

The surcharge brought a storm of protest from shipping officials here.

"The conditions which gave rise to the surcharge no longer exist," said Capt. B. D. L. Johnson, Vancouver port manager, in a statement released through his office here.

Capt. Johnson, in Ottawa on national harbors board business, said in an interview at the capital he has sent a "strong note of protest" to the Japanese freight conference.

Officials believe the Japanese based their decision to impose surcharge on a waterfront dispute last November and December between longshoremen and the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association that tied up West Coast shipping for 28 days.

The B.C. dock dispute was resolved in early December and port officials announced two weeks ago that the big backlog of ships had been cleared. Port activities, they said, had returned to normal.

Capt. Johnson said in his message to Japan the congestion has been cleared and that at present, there are no disputes or strikes threatening shipping along the B.C. coast.

Takeshi Sakaurachi, an official of Mitsui & Co. Ltd., a major Japanese export-import firm here, said that if the shipping conference sticks to its guns, the surcharge would have a serious impact on the B.C. economy.

He said he believes the conference is also considering imposition of a surcharge on goods moving the other way—from B.C. to Japan.

This, said Mr. Sakaurachi, would seriously hurt B.C. exports of iron, copper and nickel concentrates, grain, pulp and paper. Japan, he said, is the port of Vancouver's second-biggest customer after the U.S.

'CRAVEN ATTITUDE TOWARDS AUTHORITY'

English Lecturer Lashes Back at Administration

By JIM HUME

A craven attitude towards authority is the deep-rooted cause of the "corruption" on the University of Victoria campus — and in the Greater Victoria community."

English lecturer Leighton G. "Tony" Steele, who has resigned his position on the English faculty in protest at the recent rejection by university authorities of three teachers, made the statement this morning.

Leaving the campus against their will at the end of the university term this year will be Charles T. Atkinson, an assistant professor of economics and political science; Joseph S. "Jerry" Schwartz,

N.Y. Bank Bids for Shares

TORONTO (CP) — Sinclair Stevens, chairman of the Bank of Western Canada, said today that Meadow Brook National Bank of New York has "first refusal" on 10 per cent of the shares of the Bank of Western Canada and there is nothing to prevent the sale. He said in an interview that there had never been a commitment to the treasury board at Ottawa not to sell shares of the Canadian Bank to a United States bank.

Kosygin Invites Queen to Russia

LONDON (AP) — Premier Alexei Kosygin has invited Queen Elizabeth to visit the Soviet Union. "That would be very interesting," she was reported today to have replied.

Too Much Peace Talk—Salinger

PARIS (AP) — Pierre Salinger, press secretary for the late U.S. president John F. Kennedy, urged the press today to declare a six-week "truce" in speculation on Vietnam peace talks. Salinger commented that conditions now seem ripe for a satisfactory negotiated settlement of the Vietnamese conflict on the basis of the Geneva agreements of 1954. But he added that newspaper speculation renders contacts difficult.

China Says Pair Stole A-Secrets

TOKYO (AP) — The first atomic spy case in China, the newest member of the five-nation nuclear club, was reported today. There was speculation in Tokyo that it would be used to whip up more public fury against the Soviet Union.

Quoting the Revolutionary Workers' Daily, a newspaper loyal to Mao Tse-tung, the Peking correspondent of the Tokyo newspaper Mainichi Shimbun said two men in the chemical industry ministry have been arrested on a charge of stealing atomic secrets.

One of them was identified as an official named Ting Te-hsing. The nature of the secrets

NUMBER ONE ONLY SON

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung's only surviving son, 45-year-old Mao Yen-lin, has been found in a rural commune in China's Soochow province, a Peking wall newspaper reported today.

The note said restriction of Soviet personnel in Peking to their quarters prevented their exercising their normal functions such as those connected with providing military and economic aid to the Vietnamese.

The atomic spy case also came at a moment of apparent reorientation in Mao's campaign to regain control of the government and party machinery from President Liu Shao-chi, Party General Secretary Teng Hsiao-ping and their supporters.

Signs suggested such a pact might be near completion.

Prime Ministers Wilson and Kosygin met for nearly three hours with their senior advisers. They ranged also over other key European issues and matters of direct British-Soviet concern, including fiscal and credit questions.

A spokesman for the British government announced at the end of the session that "very close study" is being given to Kosygin's proposal Thursday for a British-Soviet treaty of friendship, co-operation and non-aggression.

Kosygin and Wilson have set aside at least five hours daily to continue informally their search for understanding on other unresolved issues.

Premier consideration is being given to peace-making proposals bringing together North Vietnam and the United States.
